Changes and Additions through October, 1978

The writer has moved from Dowagiac, Mich., to

Rt. 2, 55345 Fir Rd,
Mishawaka, IN 46544

This address should remain useable for some time, because my son Robert owns a store there. We welcome correspondence and visits from the family, especially to correct and update the Family History.

From the Dowagiac newspaper, ____ July 1975:

MR. AND MRS. OREN E. EUBANKS

Couple married 65 years!

Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Eubanks moved to this area in 1944 to a farm on Atwood Road where they lived for twelve years. The Eubanks of Twin Lakes were recently the guests of honor at an open house held for them by neighbors in celebration of the couples' 65th wedding anniversary.

Oren Emmett Eubanks and his wife, the former Ethel N. Sickafoose were married, July 12, 1910 by her brother in Mrs. Eubank's father's home in South Whitley, Indiana.

After marrying the couple lived in Marion, Indiana for many years before moving to South Bend in 1924.

Before the couple moved to their present home at Twin Lakes, they resided in Florida for five years.

Eubanks just recently celebrated his 89th birthday, January 20, and his wife turned 92, last month, June 24.

For eight years Eubank has been working on his family genealogical history and only recently has he completed the book and had it published.

This typewritten book is an exact duplicate of the original manuscript that was produced by me, over a period of several years of research.

My first letter, requesting information on the project, was written to the Osage County Clerk of Osage City, Kansas, on February 7, 1966, regarding the David Eubank family.

It has been revised and corrected many times during more than 8 years lapse of time, and I have made every available effort to get the missing links in the chain of genealogy, however, there remains considerable needed data, and no doubt much of it can still be obtained, and corrected hereafter, and I hope and trust that it will be.

My age will not permit me to continue on indefinitely, so I have decided to complete the materials that I have on hand at the present time.

I shall then dedicate this book and it's contents to my son, Robert Oren Eubank, and any duplicates therefrom, to the direct descendants of the original progenitors as recorded herein, to be preserved by them for future posterity.

I N T R O D U C T I O N

The purpose of these forewords are to acquaint the reader with the principles involved in the recording of the genealogical history of the Eubank and associated families, beginning with Hezekiah Eubank, the great-grandfather of this writer.

In the early sixties, while we were still holding the annual Eubank family reunion, sponsored by my family and held at my son, Robert's farm home near Dowagiac, Mich., and while the Eubank and Ruble reunion, sponsored by the Eubank and Ruble families, near Lake City, Mich., was still being held at Lake City (both of which my wife, Ethel and I attended religiously,) I conceived the idea of producing a genealogy history of the Eubank relatives.

I think this was brought about by the fact that the only records available were those of my immediate family, which actually were very meager due to negligence in keeping them up, and many were the times that we ask ourselves the question, "I wonder how old uncle, or aunt, or cousin so and so, is and where they are living now, and if dead, where they passed away?"

These same questions as to dates of births, marriages and dates of deaths, came up in our immediate families, many times.

I usually mail out more than 100 Christmas cards each year at Christmas time, many of which contain also a letter, and on two different occasions I have written to relatives that had passed away and I did not know about it; but, now with my records and a supplemental record that I keep up continually, I can look up the records of any one of the relatives herein that come to mind and avoid such occurrences.

At the time I began this project (which was in January of 1966, I did not know where any of Uncle Aaron Eubank's or Uncle David Eubank's family relatives lived, and seemingly none of the associated relatives knew either.

Referring to the records I had already compiled regarding David Eubank, as now recorded on Page 41, I found that David and Amanda Eubank had moved to Kansas near Quenimo, in the year of 1868, where they had raised their family, so my first inquiry was a letter to the Clerk of Osage County, Kansas, asking if they could tell me of the whereabouts of any of Uncle David's family.

The Clerk gave me the name and address of a lady that worked with the courthouse staff, that knew David's family.

I then wrote her and she informed me that David and his family had moved to Oklahoma, and gave me the address of one of the granddaughters there, to whom I wrote and finally got the ball rolling.

At this time all of the children of David Eubank had passed away, except, "Charles Leroy Eubank," who, with his wife, Hattie, lived at 1522 Valencia, Ocean Side, California.

Charles had since passed away on July 5, 1970.

Hattie is still living in a rest home as of this date, April 11, 1973. She will be 86 years of age this April 21st., and is the only direct spouse now living.

Up until 1970, I had not been able to contact any of Uncle Aaron Eubank's family, although I had inquired of many of the relatives. Then, in early 1970 I wrote Floyd Ketner at Corcoran, California and he informed me that at one time, Clara (Eubank,) Crom: Aaron's daughter, lived at Nehawka, Nebraska, so I wrote a letter to the postmaster at Nehawka, inquiring if he knew any of the Crom family; and he informed me that Clara's daughter, Mildred, had married Elden C. Stimbert: that Mr. Stimbert had been principal of the Nehawka Schools for several years, but now lived in Memphis, Tennessee, and had been principal of the Memphis City Schools for ten years.

Said he couldn't give me his address, but if I would write a letter addressed to the principal of the Memphis City Schools, at Memphis, Tennessee, that he was sure he would receive it, which I did, and to my surprise, after four years of unsuccessful effort, and immediately after receipt of my letter, Mildred, (who we did not know existed until a few days before,) called us on the telephone and contact was made.

They gave me much information and a wonderful biography, which made me very proud to be able to record.

During the several years since I began gathering the required information necessary to build a chain of genealogy, I have written many letters to many parts of the United States and some to Alaska.

The larger portion of relatives seem to live in Indiana, Michigan, Oklahoma, Kansas, and California, but many of them are scattered through the entire United States.

Whenever possible I have included the present addresses of the heads of the families, however, some people do move from time to time, and not all addresses recorded can be relied upon to stay correct.

Sometime during the past seven years I have written most of the heads of the families, and I want to thank everyone for their efforts in helping me to acquire the data that I have been able to record.

I have found several different relatives that at some time or other, have undertaken to produce a genealogy record, but not being able to procure enough of the necessary information; seemingly never completed the task. Each and every one of these have my sympathy, and I hope that each of them will acquire one of the books, and help to perpetuate the extension of the history in the future.

Uncle David and his wife, Amanda, lived on their farm one mile south of Sickles, Oklahoma, until Amanda died in 1917, then David went to live with his daughter, Jennie Geoffrey, at 2350 West Park Place, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

In 1918 or 1919, David visited with us in our home at Marion, Indiana, and at that time he was traveling among the relatives and was gathering information for his genealogy book, and my brother, Everett and I drove him around to see some distant relatives of his (none of whom we really knew,) and he took notes on their families to be used in his book.

This book was a loose-leaf standard typewriter size paper, that contained 71 pages of typewritten materials, 31 pages of which was recorded names of relatives; belonging in the generation's; enumerated in this history; and, the other 46 pages mentioned names of relatives belonging to the brothers and sisters of Joseph Eubank.

It was not the intention of this writer to pursue the family records of the children of Hezekiah and Christena Eubank, except that of Joseph Eubank (who was the sixth) child and who, with his wife, Rosana, were the progenitors of the following recorded generations.

I used the information mentioned in those 31 pages with much correction and addition, as a starting point.

The last recordings in Uncle David's historical sketches in those 31 pages were made in about the year of 1920.

It became necessary for me to go back to the year of 1867 to procure the names of the first born children of the sons and daughters of Joseph and Rosana Eubank, and record them and the dates of their births, and continue on down with the marriages and births of the following generations, which necessitated the searching through 105 years of family records in order to obtain.

Some exact dates are missing and it is possible that they can still be secured, and there are blank spaces left where they can be inserted, but I feel that my advanced age will not permit me to wait longer, for fear that I will be unable to get it finished as I would like it to be, and have it printed in book form and distributed.

This book will contain 288 Indexed pages.

It contains more than 1,200 names, all of which are either direct or indirect relatives of the more than six generations - of whom Joseph and Rosana Eubank, were the progenitors.

In all instances where possible, it gives the full name; date of birth; date of marriage; to whom married; and the names and birth dates of their children, beginning with the co-progenitors, who were the children of the original progenitors.

Also, many of the records of relatives contain a partial biography or schoolastic, or other achievement.

Where possible to obtain, I have recorded the dates of the deaths of each of the relatives that have passed away, and the addresses of the heads of the families (which were correct on the dates shown,) at the bottom of the recorded spaces.

With one of these books in one's possession they are in a position to use it in writing letters to relatives, or to answer many questions that arise in the family conversation - almost daily.

I had my first manuscript indexed: ready to use about four years ago, and while it was not nearly finished, I found it to be a source of information that I would feel lost without.

Hezekiah and Christena were married in Rockingham County, Virginia, in about the year of 1805.

They emigrated to Montgomery County, Ohio in the year of 1806, on Toms Run in an ox cart, drawn by two oxen; one oxen in the shalves and the other in the lead: they upset several times during the trip.

There is no further record of Christena (Deardoff) Eubank, Hezekiah Senior's wife, available at this time.

Joseph and Rosana Eubank and their granddaughter, Sarah Delphina, William Eubank's daughter, who was ten months old when her father and mother died.

Her grandfather and grandmother had already raised eleven children to maturity, three of whom were not as yet married, when they took her to raise. She was about nine years old when this picture was taken in about 1890. Her grandfather, Joseph died October 22, 1891.

JOSEPH AND ROSANA EUBANK, AND FAMILY

Joseph Eubank was born to Hezekiah and Christena Eubank in Preble County, State of Ohio, on October 8, 1820.

Rosana Rohrer was born to Aaron and Rachel (Deanor) Rohrer, in Washington County, State of Maryland, on November 22, 1822, and moved with her parents to Pickway County, State of Ohio, in the year of 1834, when Rosana was about 12 years old.

They moved from Pickway County to Preble County, where Joseph Eubank and Rosana Rohrer were married, May 16, 1841.

They lived in Preble County, Ohio for about ten years, during which time, 5 of their children were born, the fourth child, a daughter, passed away before they left Ohio, and in the year of 1851, they moved to Indiana, purchasing 80 acres of land, two miles north of Warren, in Section 16, Salimony Township, Huntington County, Indiana.

To this union 11 children were born (5 boys and 6 girls).

Elizabeth Ann Eubank, born August 12, 1862, deceased March 19, 1942;
Ida Rosana Eubank, born December 14, 1865, deceased September 21, 1957.

Joseph Eubank passed away on October 22, 1891 at the farm home in Warren, Indiana, at the age of 71 years and 14 days.

Rosana passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Etta Keith (known as Aunt Molly) on East Sherman Street, in Marion, Indiana, on October 4, 1911, at the age of 88 years, 10 months and 12 days.

Joseph was buried in Good Cemetery, Warren, Indiana; has stone monument with the following inscription:

"Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep
In which none ever wake to weep".

Rosana was laid to rest along side of Joseph, but no inscription of her appears.

Sometime during the latter part of his life, Joseph was crowded by a high spirited horse in a stall of their barn in the farm and was injured, and the affects of that injury was thought to have shortened his life span.

This was related to the writer by his brother, Charles Franklin Eubank, who was 16 years old when Joseph passed away and who was very closely affiliated with his grandfather during his late years.

AARON EUBANK

Aaron Eubank (the first son of Joseph and Rosana Eubank), and Martha (Dudley) Eubank, born September 30, 1847, were married in about the year of 1864.

David Eubank's record contains the following stanza.

To the above union was born one child only, a male baby named Ellis Eubank.

Martha passed away May 23, 1867, at the age of 19 years, 8 months and 23 days.

Aaron's second wife was Lusadia Swaim, who was born September 2, 1852 in Randolph County, North Carolina.

They were married in about the year of 1868.

To this union four children were born.

Arthur L. Eubank, born August 23, 1869;

Clara Levanda Eubank, born October 16, 1871;

Elmer Addison Eubank, born June 8, 1873;

Walter Eubank, born August 17, 1875.

Walter passed away on September 7, 1875, age 23 days.

Lusadia was a sister to the writer's mother, Charlotte Swaim, and Aaron being my father's brother, made the children of the two families double cousins.

Lusadia passed away March 23, 1877, at the age of 24 years, 6 months and 21 days.

Aaron's third wife was Catherin (Gebhart) (Good) of Fort Jefferson, Ohio, born February 12, 1838, and they were married in the year of 1879.

She had a daughter by the name of Nora Conn at the time of their marriage.

Catherin passed away in November of 1906 and Aaron on April 20, 1910, at the age of 67 years and 10 months.

Aaron Eubank served four years and four months in the Thirty-Fourth Indiana Veteran Volunteer Infantry.

My father, Henry James Eubank, was about 7 years younger than Aaron and had not yet been called for service when the war ended, and I remember him telling of this incident.

Shortly before the war ended in the year of 1965, Aaron came home on a furlough, and the war was declared over while he was there, and when the news came, Aaron thought they should celebrate.

He loaded up the old musket with a heavy charge of powder, using hornet's nest for wadding, elevated the muzzle of the gun into the air and squeezed the trigger.

The explosion was terrific and Aaron was left standing with nothing but the stock of the gun in his hand, exclaiming in frenzy, "where is my gun?"

This story was told by my father when I was small and has remained vivid in my mind, and I remember my father's humor as he used to relate the incident.

"The Writer"

Aaron and his three wives are buried in the Good Cemetery in the southeast edge of Warren, Indiana.

Stone bears his name and Twenty-Fourth Indiana Infantry only.

David Eubank, on one of his visitations here from Oklahoma, after Aaron passed away, purchased and installed a grave marker for each of Aaron's wives.

ARTHUR L. EUBANK

Arthur L. Eubank, the son of Aaron and Lusadia (Swaim) Eubank, left his father's home at the southeast corner of the intersection of Sherman Avenue and Ohio Street in Marion, Grant County, Indiana, in the year of about 1899, when he was about 30 years of age, going by horseback to the State of Colorado.

He worked for a gold mining company near Telluride, in San Miguel County, Colorado, for several years as a tram man, after which he was employed by the Western Power Company at Illium, Colorado, and his job was to walk the Illium Flume.

He slipped on the wet flume and fell, injuring his spine, causing paralysis, which caused his death.

There is no available record at this time, December 12, 1967, of the date of his death.

Little more is known about him other than a type-written paper that was written by someone at the time of his death; that was sent to Floyd Ketner, a cousin of his and mine, and mailed by Floyd to this writer in December of 1967, 36 years after the accident.

The supposition is that he, Arthur, never married.

A facsimile of the above-mentioned paper appears herein.

Through inquiry by the writer to the Montrose Funeral Home, at Montrose, Colorado, as of December 29, 1967, I received the following information.

QUOTE

"Funeral Services for Arthur L. Eubank, were held at the Montrose Funeral Home Chapel at 2:30 P. M., Oct. 12th., 1931, with burial in Ceder Cemetery, at Montrose, Colorado.

He passed away Oct., 8th., 1931, at St. Lukes Hospital, Montrose, Colorado.

In the Funeral Home Records, there is nothing to show that he was ever married, or had any children."

FACSIMILE OF TYPEWRITTEN PAPER MENTIONED

ARTHUR L. EUBANK

BEARS UP BRAVELY TO THE LAST

A.L. Eubank, 56, who passed away Thursday noon after injuries received last Friday, amazed all who came in contact with him, by his heroic spirit.

Everything was alright with him and he spent his last days without complaining or murmuring.

When told he had little chance, without an operation and little more with one, and asked his opinion, he said, "he would leave it to the doctors decision as to what to do."

Even in his last hours when asked how he was, he would reply, "fine" with a smile, although his friends knew he was not feeling fine, however, due to the paralysis that seized him immediately after the fall he did not really suffer any pain.

He had been walking the Illium flume for the Colorado Power Company for eleven years; previous to that he was engaged in mining at Telluride, being a tram man.

Little is known about him. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. L. Crom of Nehawka, Nebraska, who arrived Friday to make arrangements for the burial.

He spoke of a brother, but did not know the address.

The power company did everything possible for him, even bringing in a noted Denver specialist, to operate on him, but without success.

He slipped on the wet flume last Friday and fell; his companion was unable to carry him to aid, and had to leave him for an hour and a half, while he went for aid.

During that time it rained very hard, and Mr. Eubank said he never had anything annoy him so much as the heavy rain beating down in his face during that time and being utterly unable to ward it off, otherwise, he uttered no other word of complaint, everything was alright. He said if he could not get well it was alright and whatever happened was for the best.

He took everything stoically, just as the old miner pioneers do.

The body is at the Montrose Funeral Home awaiting funeral arrangements.

December 29, 1967.

Here is a newspaper clipping that was mailed to me by Mildred (Crom) Stimbert of 4730 Lorence Avenue, Memphis, Tenn., who was the daughter of Clara (Eubank) Crom, Arthur's sister, as of March 4, 1970, in answer to my letter of inquiry to her of recent date.

QUOTE

A.L. Eubank, dies as result of broken back. A. L. Eubank, who for the past 15 years has been in the employment of the Western Colorado Power Company in this Section, in the capacity of flume patrolman, passed away at St. Lukes Hospital, Montrose, Colorado at the noon hour, Thursday, Oct., 8th.

While walking the flume, three miles above Ames last Friday, Mr. Eubank slipped and fell, breaking his back. Every effort was made to save his life, but his spine was so badly injured, that nothing could save him.

O. G. Cowan of Illium was with him at the time of the accident.

Dr. C. S. Mollohan was immediately summoned and Mr. Eubank was rushed to the hospital at Montrose, the doctor and Alva Otto making the trip with him.

He had been paralyzed in the lower part of his body since the accident and had not been relieved of this condition, although everything possible had been done to help him.

An intricate operation was performed by Dr. Robert G. Packard, one of the best surgeons in Denver, who was brought to Montrose by the power company.

Three vertebrae were broken in the lower part of Mr. Eubank's neck.

He was 56 years of age at the time of his death.

Funeral arrangements will be made as soon as his sister and brother-in-law arrive from Nebraska.

Other survivors are a brother whose address is unknown and two uncles, one residing in Michigan, and one in Oklahoma.

The brother mentioned was Elmer Addison Eubank, of Dayton, Ohio.

The uncle living in Michigan was John Franklin Eubank of Lake City, and the uncle residing in Oklahoma was David Eubank, of Oklahoma City.

Also, at that time, three of his aunts on his father's side, Jane Ketner, Elizabeth Mitchel and Ida Ketner, were still living in Michigan.

Arthur was about 32 years of age when he left the farm where Uncle John Eubank lived about three miles west of Banquo, Indiana, by horseback, bound for Colorado. He worked for the mining company at Telluride and the power company at Illium for about thirty years.

He was 55 years, 11 months, and 15 days of age when he passed away.

All four children were raised together as full brothers and sisters, and have the same respect for each other, as if they were.

Following are the duplicates of the obituaries clipped from the newspapers at the time of the passing of William Lincoln Crom, and Clara Levanda Crom.

WILLIAM LINCOLN CROM

William Lincoln Crom, son of Elijah and Jane Crom, was born August 9, 1869. He died near Moscow, Idaho, November 21, 1949, at the age of 80 years, 3 months, and 11 days.

Very early in his childhood he moved with his parents from his birthplace in Iowa to a homestead near Swanton, Nebraska.

An interesting event in his life occurred when the family started west in a covered wagon, driving a team of oxen, which followed the Oregon Trail.

After many months enroute it was decided to turn back, and the family returned to Nebraska.

A decision to dedicate his life to the Gospel ministry was made at the age of 18. In 1895 he received his license to preach in the United Brethren Church and was ordained in that church in 1903.

There followed additional years of study at the Indiana Central College. During 30 years of ministry he served charges in Indiana, Nebraska, and Kansas.

His untiring efforts resulted in the building of larger memberships and general progress in each church.

This was especially true in the church at Du Bois, which was a very successful work.

He united with the First Presbyterian Church, Pawnee City, together with his wife, on December 29, 1946.

Among his outstanding characteristics was his enthusiasm for anything he thought worthwhile. He had an unusual and vital concern for all the lost, and a deep interest in the Sunday school and in all Bible study.

His last public talk was at the fellowship supper at the First Presbyterian Church, when he spoke of his future home in heaven and sang an old hymn, "I am Bound for the Promised Land." One song he loved to sing at the men's prayer meeting was "My Soul be on thy Guard."

Surviving are his widow, Clara L. Crom; a son Jay L. Crom, of Pawnee City; three daughters, Mrs. Glen Miller, of Wellington, Kansas, Mrs. Morris Mann, of Omaha, and Mrs. E. C. Stimbert, of Memphis, Tenn.; 13 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren, one brother C. J. Crom, of Sulphur Springs, Arkansas, two sisters, Mrs. John Gratehouse, of Lincoln; and Mrs. Marry Collicott, of Moscow, Idaho,

Many nieces and nephews also survive him.

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church, Saturday, November 26, at 2:30 P. M.

In her early childhood she moved with her parents to Indiana, where she lived for many years.

As the wife of a minister, Rev. W. L. Crom, she served untiringly with him in his pastorates in Indiana, Kansas, and Nebraska.

Partial Biography of Mildred (Crom) Stimbert, and family.

I was born in Logansport, Indiana, January 19, 1907; my parents, William Lincoln Crom and Clara Levanda (Eubank) (Charles) Crom, have told me it was a night to remember. My father attempted to cross the flooding Wabash River on horseback to call a doctor. He had to turn back and they resorted to kindly neighbors for aid in the birth. When I was one year of age the family moved to Nebraska. Our first home was at Julian, where my father served as Minister at the United Brethern Church. Numerous moves were made during my childhood. During my high school days we lived near Plattsmouth, Nebraska and I completed all four years there, graduating in 1925. That fall we moved to Lincoln, Nebraska so that I could register and enter Nebraska Wesleyan University. I met my husband there; Elden Carl Stimbert of Inland, Nebraska. After graduating in 1929 we each taught one year and were married in June of 1930. Our first home was at Johnson, Nebraska where Elden was superintendent of schools. He remained in this position in Nehawka, Nebraska for ten years and Lyons, Nebraska for one year. At that time (during the war) he accepted a position with the Firestone Company in the labor and training division. We lived in Lincoln for two years and then moved to Memphis, Tennessee. After two years he was asked to become Director of Instruction for the Memphis Public School System, which he accepted and later became Assistant Superintendent, and for the last twelve years has been superintendent of the city schools. Our son and daughter were both born in Omaha, Nebraska while we were living in Nehawka, Nebraska. My sister, Gladys, who was an ostetrical nurse, was in attendance at both births. Our daughter, Phyllis, and son, Vaughn, both received their A. B. degrees from Memphis State University. Phyllis taught speech and english in Memphis and Culver City, California for seven years. She and her husband, Ronald Patterson, now live in Hollywood, California with their two sons, Kevin and Brian. Ronald is a graduate of the U.C.L.A. Art School. Our son, Vaughn, spent five years as a navigator with the Stragetic Air Command. He then came back to Memphis and got his M. A. degree in physiology. In 1962 he married Betty Mothershed, who was at that time the television science instructor for the Memphis City Schools. She has received her M. A. in Biology. They moved to Tallahassee, Florida for three years, where Betty continues to teach and Vaughn received his P.H.D. in physiology from Florida State University. They have now moved back to Memphis where Vaughn is with the Child Development Center of the University of Tennessee Medical School. They have two daughters, Cynthia and Susan. Over the years we have continued our education; I went back to Memphis State University and took the Library Science Course they offered; Elden got his M. A. from the University of Nebraska before we moved to Memphis. Since he has received honorary degrees and has been awarded many educational honors, both locally and nationally.

In the year of 1851 his parents sold the farm near New Madison in Ohio, and moved to Warren, Indiana and purchased eighty acres of land two miles north of town in Section 16, Salimony Township, Huntington County, Indiana.

David helped clear up sixty acres of this land, ready for cultivation; then on August 1, 1862, he enlisted in the service of the Civil War; was mustered into service on August 17th and went to Louisville, Kentucky; then he was sent to Lebanon, Kentucky; then back to Louisville, Kentucky and marched to Frankfort, Kentucky and Boling Green, Kentucky. Then to Nashville and Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

They stayed there until early in the spring of 1863 and then went to Chattanooga, Tennessee.

In the spring of 1864 they moved out for Ringold, and started on the campaign for Atlanta.

He was in the battle's of Chimago, Missionary Ridge, Rasaka, Buzzard Roost, Dalton, Kennesaw Mountain, and Peach Tree Creek.

He was wounded in the battle at Peach Tree Creek on August 10, 1864, and was sent back to the field hospital; then the next day to Vining Station; then to Louisville, Kentucky and then to Evansville, Indiana.

At this time they discovered gangrene in one of the wounds of the right leg, and it ate off one of the cords and came close to the artery, but they got it stopped in time.

They got an order to discharge all at the hospital, and David was sent to Indianapolis, Indiana where his regiment was waiting for their discharge, and they all went home together.

They were discharged May 26, 1865.

As previously stated, David married Amanda Becker on January 15, 1867 and they rented and lived on the Irwin farm that year; then they lived on his Uncle Henry Eubank's farm the following year, then late in the year of 1868 he went to Kansas and took a claim near Quenimo, and preempted it, where he lived until 1901, when he sold the farm at Quenemo.

While living on the Irwin farm near Warren, Indiana, the first child, Laura Luella, was born, and the other nine children were born on the farm at Quenimo.

They then bought a claim in Oklahoma, one mile south of Sickles and homesteaded it, and lived there until Amanda passed away on July 14, 1917, when David went to live with their daughter, Jennie Geofrey, at 2350 West Park Place, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

During this period of time David was working on his geneology book, which he turned over to Harry Mitchell for his keeping, on April 9, 1930.

David passed away May 25, 1937 at Oklahoma City, and the funeral services were held at the Methodist Church with burial at Sickles, Oklahoma, where Amanda was buried.

He was 93 years and 8 months old when he passed away.

A TRIP TO EUROPE

Benjamin Harrison Morris was managing a store for W.T. Farley, who owned and operated a chain of 66 stores.

Mr. Farley arranged a contest to see which manager could make the largest volume of sales in a given time.

The contest was started on October 1st, and ran until March 31st, a period of six months.

Mr. Morris won the contest and Mr. Farley honored him and his wife with a trip to Europe.

All arrangements were made through the New York Office, to make the trip.

Leaving Miami, Florida, June 5, 1926 on Steam Ship Seneca, and arriving in New York June 8th.

They set sail June 11th, (taking eleven days to cross.)

The following travel log was related by them.

We landed at Southhamton, England the 26th day of June; we took the train to London, England; after spending several days in England, we went across the English Channel to the Hook of Holland.

From there we went to Masterdam, Holland and spent five or six days there; the third day in Holland we visited the Isles of Marken, where the people dressed in their old native Dutch costumes; they also wore wooden shoes.

After spending a pleasant visit in Holland we went to Antwerp and Brussels, Belgium. After visiting Belgium, and her cities, we went by train to Paris, France.

While there we went to one of the battle fields and also the cemetery where the American and French soldiers were buried.

Spending a week in Paris we went to Cherburg, France, and from there we took the boat ORBITA for home.

A BIT OF HISTORY IN HIS OWN WORDS QUOTE

We have an unusual situation here in that the greater Kansas City area has over a million people, at this date, January 24, 1968, and that to my knowledge, I haven't a single relative living here on my side of the tree, while a majority of my wife's relatives live here, or near by.

My work is as an inspector for the railroads.

Since we are so centrally located, we have twelve lines in and out of here, so there is considerable railroad traffic.

Of course, most of it is freight, but that is what my work involves.

My wife, Ruth, works for the Bendix Corporation, who at this plant make items for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Our three children are still in school.

James was nearly eleven years old when his father and mother passed away - within a week of each other - and his grandfather and grandmother, Joseph and Rosana Eubank, took him to live with them; we lived near his grandfather, who was also my grandfather; and he used to come to our home to see us occasionally.

I remember on one of these visits when he was about twenty years old, and at a time when my brother, Everett, was about five years old and I was between two and three years old, and on this occasion, both of us were ailing with someone of the children's ailments, so prevalent in those times, and both were occupying a double crib, which also was common item to see in those days.

Jimmie, as the folks called him, approached the crib and regarded us closely and said, "I am going to go hunting and get you boys a rabbit to eat."

He then disappeared and after awhile came in with a cottontail. The above happening has painted a picture in my mind that is as vivid today as it was at that time, more than eighty years ago. At that time we lived in a little house near the Clover Leaf Railroad, not far from Warren, Indiana, and shortly after this, Jimmie went with Uncle Joseph and Aunt Jane Ketner to Banner Springs, Tennessee. He was living with them when he took sick and was confined to his bed for five weeks when he passed away.

He was buried in a cemetery near Spring Chappel. He had purchased property and was preparing to make his home there at the time of his illness.

Janice Ruth Collver, born September 9,-----1946.

On December 9, 1974, as I was trying to close the book, preparitory to having it published, I received the following which I am recording here, almost verbatim, without the permission of the writers.

Christmas, 1974. The Collvers, 1495 East Drive, Flint, Michigan, 48504. Remembering Friends, "What a Joy"

The Gospel of Luke tells why Christ was born in a cattle stall, saying of Mary." And she brought forth her first born Son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the Inn."

We know little about the Bethel Innkeeper, and what we do know is sad. On that holy night his rooms were all taken. There was no more space. Royalty was coming. The Infant King would be born at any hour. But the innkeeper could not receive him.

As we make room for him in our hearts and lives, we are reminded of the past blessings, his love for us and giving us strength throughout the year. We have much to be thankful for! Burt and I will be celebrating our 50th. wedding anniversary on January 16, 1975! We have had much happiness together, many friends, many blessings, and God has given a wonderful family to us. We will have a Golden Anniversary Open House in April, Date due to Michigan weather conditions..

Burt's health is reasonably good. He has been able to get out more this past year. We recently attended the Thanks-giving Banquet at our Church, which he very much enjoyed.

We enjoy our home very much.

We would like to share with you a few highlights from our family! Rose Marie is still working as a nurse at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor! Her third and youngest daughter, Joy, was married to Bill Evans in August. She will graduate with a nursing degree and he in Theology from Olivet in Illinois.

Marilyn is kept busy helping to deliver babies at the Martin Place Hospital. Her daughter, Lori, will be our only high school graduate in June. Marilyn and Cleo's grandson also keeps them busy and YOUNG. Wendell and Gail are still in the school system, and they top the list, as Terry and Jan presented them with a grandson, Scott LaMar, born November 1st., 1974. Scott is our fourth great-grandchild. Wendell and Gail's second son, Jeff, was married to Melissa Miller in September.

Bud's boys Dave and John, are growing up all to fast. It is a delight to have them visit us. John enjoys hockey and Dave fishing! Dave is with the American Cancer Society, now working in Oakland County. Mary Beth is full of sunshine and has her own vocabulary. Janice is again among the ranks of the working girls. Hollis is interested in music, and she enjoys piano and voice.

My greatest loss was the passing of my brother, Floyd Mathias in November, 1974.

God gives us Peace and contentment, "most of all," his Love. The very best to each of you in 1975. We would love to have a visit from you anytime.

Signed,

Sincerely, _____
Burt and Hester.

WHAT WILL YOU DO WITHOUT HIM?
BY

FRANCIS RIDLEY HAVERGAL

I could not do without him, Jesus - he is more to me than all the richest, fairest gifts of earth could ever be. But, the more I find him precious, and the more I find him true, the more I long for you to find what he can do for you. What will you do without him? Is he not kind indeed? Did he not die to save you? Is he not all you need? Do you not want a saviour? Do you not want a friend? One who will love you faithfully and love you to the end? What will you do without him, when death is drawing near, without his love - the only love that casts out every fear? When the Shadow-Valley opens, unlight and unknown, and the terrors of its darkness must all be passed alone! What will you do without him when he has shut the door and you are left outside because you could not come before? When it is no use knocking - no use to stand and wait; for the word of doom tolls through your heart, that terrible too late. You cannot do without him - there is no other name by which you ever can be saved - no way - no hope - no claim, without him, everlasting loss of love and life and light! Without him - everlasting woe, and everlasting night. Why should you do without him? It is not yet too late; he has not closed the day of grace and he has not shut the gate. He calls you! Hush! He calls you! He would not have you go another step without him because he loves you so. What will you do without him when the great white throne is set and the Judge who never can mistake, and never can forget - the Judge whom you have never here, as friend and saviour sought, shall summon you to give account of deed, word and thought? You need not do without him, for he is passing by. He is waiting to be gracious, only waiting for your cry. He is waiting to receive you - to make you all his own! Why will you do without him and wonder on alone.

The above Tract, was mailed to the writer by Edna Cleo Robinson, a second cousin.

Edna has been ailing for sometime with what is thought to be an incurable malady. May God bless her and keep her faithful to the end of her suffering, is my Prayer.

QUOTE

Misfortune started Lake City Flea Market.

Three years ago Mrs. Eileen Eubank of Lake City, Michigan, was a busy housewife with two teenage daughters at home. Then, at age 34 she was completely paralyzed from the waist down! Observation at University Hospital in Ann Arbor, and at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., indicated her case was hopeless - she would be paralyzed for life. Returning home, she was determined to do her housework unaided.

She started cleaning house and decided to have a yard sale. She and her husband owned an abandoned farm house a few miles south of Lake City, and they held the sale there.

That sale was so successful that Mrs. Eubank has gone on to build a big business.

It's called The Lake City Flea Market - now in its third year and if you're ever in the vicinity of Lake City, between Cadillac and Houghton, you'll have a chance to take it in. Eileen's husband, John, refurbished the old farm house - transformed it into a kitchen and dining room. They now serve meals to hundreds of tourists who stop each Saturday during the summer months to browse through goods offered for sale in the one acre plot. Space is rented by rummage sellers.

With the aid of her eighteen year old daughter, Sheila, her mother, Mrs. Oren Chalker, and her husband, John, Mrs. Eubank has made the Lake City Flea Market a flourishing business that soon is going to be open two days a week instead of just one.

Mrs. Eubank works all week preparing for Saturday at the restaurant. At three A.M. Saturday morning she arrives in the kitchen and starts baking pies, bread and pastry. She bakes forth pies before noon each Saturday and also bakes buns for supper and sandwiches and makes the sauce for sloppy joes. Daughter Sheila serves at the cafeteria style counter and dad works between kitchen and dining room, clearing tables and keeping the line moving.

Mrs. Chalker tallies the stall rentals out in the yard. It's quite a deal for a gal, confined to a wheelchair.

HENRY JAMES EUBANK

Henry James Eubank, (the son of Joseph and Rosana (Rohrer) Eubank,) and Charlotte (Swaim) Eubank, born in Randolph County, North Carolina, on August 5, 1857, were married on May 19, 1874.

To this union were born five children.

Charles Franklin Eubank, born February 28,-----1875;

Ida Viola Bell Eubank, born July 1,-----1877;

Ernest Everett Eubank, born September 21,-----1884;

Oren Emmett Eubank, born June 24,-----1886;

Clarence Lessel Addison Eubank, born February 28,-----1893.

Henry J. Eubank was born on his father's farm near Warren, Huntington County, Indiana, and passed away at Lessel's home on Coit Avenue, Grand Rapids, Michigan, on February 10, 1923.

Charlotte (Swaim) Eubank was born in North Carolina near the City of Charlotte, and came to Indiana with her parents, "overland" when she was about two years old. She passed away at Oren Emmett's home in South Bend, Indiana, on March 11, 1933.

They were laid to rest, side by side in Fairplane Cemetery, Napp Street, N. E., Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Henry James, like many of his ancestors, while growing up, learned the building trades.

After marriage he lived much of his life on farms. He didn't own a farm for many years and after his son, Charles, got old enough to help with the farming, they farmed and worked at the trade also.

Of course, the renting of farms isn't entirely a matter of permanence and occasionally they were unable to procure a satisfactory agreement and they would move perhaps into some close town and work at their trade until some satisfactory arrangement could be had.

Consequently, they did considerable moving. In 1895, when Grover Cleveland was President of the U. S. A., and times were very hard, father quit farming and moved to Van Buren, Indiana, and lived on a rented property for a while - then purchased a small tract of land at the west end of town that laid on the south side of the main road, running east through Van Buren, which was a part of the Chopson farm, containing (I think,) one and three-tenths acres that was covered with Virgin Oak timber.

Father took enough timber from that parcel of land to supply enough rough lumber to build a six room house, a 24 foot by 36 foot barn and other outbuildings. He hued all of the sills for the house and barn out by hand with a broad ax, and split enough 1" X 6" X 24" Oak wood shingles for the barn roof and enough 1" X 2½" - four foot Oak wood pickets to weave 900 linear feet of picket fence, and wove the fence into place with a fence machine and three double strands of wire, all pickets and shingles were hand split, using a fro, and what we called a mule clamp.

Brother Charles kept a team of horses and the farming impliments when they left the farm and he rented and farmed the Chopson land.

We continued to live in Van Buren until about 1902 or 1903, when father purchased a fifty acre farm with fair buildings, about six miles west of Columbia City, Indiana, in Whitley County and we moved there. By this time Charles and Sister Vi'Ola were married and gone to themselves, and Everett and I were both old enough to take care of the farm work, which we did for a while, but father's health wasn't very good and Everett and I were away from home much of the time, doing construction work, and father decided to sell the farm and move into Columbia City, Indiana. Later, in 1912, they and Lessel, who was now about 19 years old, went to Hoxeyville, Michigan to live, but didn't like it there and returned to Marion, Indiana, until in 1920 when they went to Rockford, Michigan, where Lessel and Bessie were married on March 11, 1922, and later to Grand Rapids.

By this time father's health was very poor, so Lessel purchased a home on Coit Avenue, in Grand Rapids and converted it into two apartments, where they and father and mother lived until his death on February 10, 1923.

Lessel later moved to South Bend and worked with me, and mother lived with us first at 1825 Brookfield Street, then at 2013 Freemont Street, until she passed away on March 11, 1933. Father and mother were members of the United Brethren Church for many years, probably had their faults, as all human beings do, but they were good people that tried hard to live a Christian life, and after fifty and forty years respectively, since they passed away, their image stands out very vividly in my mind, and I shall honor and love their memory, as long as I am permitted to live.

EULOGY OF THE WRITER

CHARLES FRANKLIN EUBANK

Charles Franklin Eubank, (the son of Henry James and Charlotte (Swaim) Eubank,) and Myrtle L. (Berringer) Eubank, born April 16, 1877, were united in marriage January 11, 1896 at Van Buren, Indiana.

To this union were born four children.

Viva Eubank, born December 22, 1896;

Clarence Ellsworth Eubank, born November 15, 1897;

Roy Franklin Eubank, born March 11, 1901;

Twylah E. Eubank, born December 16, 1906.

Viva passed away in infancy.

Myrtle passed away at their country home near Rockford, Michigan, on February 16, 1962.

Charles passed away one month and three days later on March 9, 1962, at the same home. They were laid to rest side by side in Idlewise Cemetery, near Kent City, Michigan.

The life of Charles Franklin Eubank as related by his son, Clarence, and recorded by the writer.

Charles Franklin Eubank, the first child born to Henry James and Charlotte (Swaim) Eubank, like his father, was a farmer and a construction mechanic and he usually managed to carry on both facets of his trades at the same time, and after he was married to his wife, Myrtle, on January 11, 1896 at Van Buren, Indiana, he rented a farm a few miles distant, from Van Buren, and moved there, and on December 22 nd, their first child, a daughter, named Viva, was born, who died in infancy. They next rented a farm in St. Joseph County, Indiana, near Walkerton and moved there and on November 15, 1887, their first son, Clarence, was born, then in early 1899 they moved to a farm a short distance west of Banquo, Indiana, where they lived until the fall of 1900, when Charles built a house just west of where his father lived, which was across the street from the United Brethren Church on West Main Street in Van Buren, Indiana. They moved there and on March 11, 1901 their second son, Roy, was born. They continued to live there and Charles worked for the Van Buren Lumber Company, stocking the material bins, and delivering materials to customers, with a lumber wagon, and a large team of gray horses.

During this time he built another house alongside of where they lived. In 1902 he sold these houses and purchased a forty acre farm about two miles south and east of Taylor Station, southwest of Columbia City, Indiana. This farm had a nice tract of timber, and he logged off most of the saw timber, hauling it to the mill in Columbia City, also hauled land tax gravel on the roads for many of the local farmers and did considerable carpentering, and returned to Van Buren and plastered a big new house on what was known as the McGee farm, on the Grant and Huntington County lines north of Van Buren, Indiana.

The next year, in 1903, there was a building boom in Van Buren, and he sold this farm and returned there, built a new house for his family, and did a big building business there that year.

In 1904 he sold out again in Van Buren and purchased an eighty acre farm in Whitley County, Indiana, about five miles west and south of Columbia City. This was in what was known as the Oak Grove Community, and it had a goodly piece of timber on it, and in the winter months Father cleared off part of it, selling the saw timber and buzzing the remainder of the trees and the small timber into firewood and again hauling the surplus wood to Columbia City families for fire wood. He farmed his fields, and some additional land, for a neighbor, and did considerable building work in the vicinity. There was a road that ran north and south through the center of the eighty acres; the house stood on the east forty, and the barn on the west forty. This he didn't like, so he eventually moved the barn, which was quite large, across the road next to the house.

In 1906, after living here for about three years, he sold the farm, and on November 6th he had an auction sale, selling everything except what they wanted to take with them, which was a team of horses, wagon, plow, drag, and a few other things. This they loaded into a boxcar with their furniture and moved to Cadillac, Michigan, where he had purchased a farm, about three miles west of the west end of Lake Cadillac. They just nicely got settled when on December 16, 1906, their daughter, Twylah was born. That was fine and okay, but the land was just no good, "sand" that dad didn't like, so one month later, in January of 1907, they traded that place for a nice little place of fifteen acres with a good house and barn, a horse, cow, sow, and chickens. This was near Warsaw, Indiana, about a mile across the field from Winona Lake, so there we had made another landing but, just for a few days, because father had traded this place for two hundred acres of timber land three miles from Harrisburg, Arkansas. So out we go again on the same snow we came in on, and when we arrived there we couldn't get the house for a month, so we rented a house in Harrisburg for a month, and when that time was up, we moved to the farm.

Part of the land had been cleared and there was ten acres of Peach trees that bloomed and had peaches on them, but the sun was so hot that it just cooked the top sides of the peaches and they all fell to the ground, and there was about ten acres that we planted to corn, and that was good, but when the ears started to develope with corn the coons came in from the timber and cleaned off every ear.

We didn't get even one ear! In the meantime, father had sold a lot of the timber to a company and they had moved a sawmill into the woods and dad got busy and traded the land for a hundred acres near Washington Court Court House, Ohio, so heads up again, here we go to Ohio. This land was rough hills, covered with good railroad tie timber. He hired some help and cut this off and delivered it to the railroad. He sold the land to the man that owned the land next to us; now it is time for us to go again, and we did just that, and we landed in South Whitley, Indiana on March 8, 1908.

We moved the things out to John Smith's house near his store at Luther, six miles south of South Whitley, across the road from the Tile Kills. Dad and I worked there for a Mr. Zent that owned the tile factory, until fall, when we moved to the Nickey farm, about one and a half miles north of Columbia City, Indiana. While living there, dad purchased a city lot on the north edge of the city, and during the winter months of 1908 and 1909 we built a house there, (that father afterwards sold,) while new - and in the fall of 1910 we moved over to the Clugiston farm, that joined up to the city limits on the north edge of Columbia City, and west of North Chauncey Street Road.

We farmed this place until the fall of 1912, presidential election year, when we sold out to father's brother, Everett Eubank, and they loaded their household goods and other things that they wanted to take along in a box railroad car and billed it out for Cadillac, Michigan on September 19, 1912; we started out with a covered wagon and horses, for Hoxeyville, Wexford County, Michigan, where father's brother, Emmett and he had purchased three-fourths of a section of land a year before, some of which was original timber and we went there for the purpose of cutting the timber and disposing of it.

It took nine days to make the overland trip by wagon, and we arrived there at midnight on September 8th. This land was about four miles northwest of Hoxeyville, Michigan, and about twenty-five miles West of Cadillac. We drove off the road on the west side, going north into the timber, which was the southwest quarter of the section, as the north and south road going north from Hoxeyville ran through the center of the section, and there we camped until morning.

It was on a Saturday night and as I said, midnight, so mother dad and Twylah slept in the wagon and Roy and I slept under the wagon on the ground. In the morning we looked at our shoes and socks that we had left out and they were white with frost. Not so happy about this we pulled them on, hoping they would soon warm up and dry off, then, after mother fixed our breakfast we figured out and drove four stakes where we would build a little house, size 18' by 24', for a place to get into as soon as possible. Clarence says, "now, Uncle Emmett this is when and where you come in," meaning that I worked in the timber with them that winter, all of which I hope to be able to explain in a separate item, I being the writer.

The next spring we moved over onto the Peterson farm and worked it in 1913. A part of that spring and summer dad drove a big ox team, equipped with ox yoke, chains and logging tongs, pulling logs out of the wet low lands along the south branch of the Manistee River.

Later on, in 1913 father contracted a big house and a big stock barn to build, over by Luther, Michigan. He hired some men to help him and it took them all of that summer up until late fall to finish them.

On October 15, 1913 we moved over to a big house one-half mile west of Hoxeyville, just for the winter, and on March 20, 1914 father started out with the team and wagon, and the rest of us went down on the train to Kalamazoo, Michigan, where father met us, and we went out to the farm that he had rented, near Galesburg, and our goods came, and we were all in the business again. Among the crops we had about twenty acres of potatoes for a cash crop. The crop was all good, but the price wasn't any good. No. 1. Potatoes delivered in Kalamazoo only .17¢ per bushel. That, we would not do, so two days before Thanksgiving in 1914, we loaded two refrigerator cars with potatoes and on Thanksgiving day we loaded a boxcar with our horses, tools and furniture, billed them out that evening for Rison, Arkansas, where we got a $1.00 per bushel for them.

Father did carpenter work and when he had spare time, we worked in the woods cutting timber for the Cotton Belt Railroad, bridge timbers and spiles, with which bridges were constructed.

Then, in April of 1915 we moved back north to Marion, Indiana. This summer father and I worked for Pasco Peal building houses and carpentering on a big building for the Box Board Company, on which Mr. Peal was the construction foreman. Then, that fall, on October 5, 1915, father and his brother, Lessel Eubank, went up to Kent City, Michigan on Lessel's motorcycle, each looking for a place to buy, and Lessel purchased a nice twenty acre tract, with good buildings, and father bought a forty acre farm five miles north and three miles east of Kent City, Michigan. Then, they returned to Marion on Uncle Lessel's motorcycle; then father and his family, Uncle Lessel, grandma and grandpa Eubank, all packed their goods and furniture and loaded them into a boxcar, and shipped them to Kent City, in the fall of 1915.

In 1917 father purchased another sixty acres, which made enough land to keep the family busy as we grew.

Alot of crops for the Kent City Canning Factory.

Father was busy all the time, building several new farm homes, all around Kent City.

By this time we had found out that our land was too low and frosty for us, so father sold it, and took in city property in Grand Rapids, but that he didn't want either, so within a week, he traded the city property for an eighty acre farm about four miles east of Rockford, Michigan, where we moved to on March 25, 1920, farming it that season, and the following season. Then, in the early winter of 1921, father traded this farm for a large duplex property in Grand Rapids, on Plainfield Avenue, where they lived in a part of the house and rented the balance.

Father contracted carpenter work here until in March, 1923, when he traded this duplex for a one hundred sixty acre farm near Nashville, Michigan, where he moved to on April 1, 1923. One year on that farm was enough. It was so stony with large ones coming to the surface, that father sold the farm in the fall of 1923, and had an auction sale. We then moved back to Grand Rapids, purchasing a lot on South Division Street in the Home Acre Division and built a home, where we lived until in the fall of 1924, when he got a chance to sell it for a good price, and take in a house on Coit Avenue, which he did, then we moved to the Coit Avenue house.

I, Clarence, bought the vacant lot just north of it and built my house, where Vinnie and I lived until we moved to the farm, where I still live.

In the spring of 1926, father traded his Coit Avenue property for an eighty acre farm on the north edge of Sparta, Michigan, and they moved out there. Then, in February of 1927 he traded the Sparta farm for that one hundred sixty acre farm on Shaner Avenue, northeast of Rockford, Michigan, which turned out to be his last farm. It had a good barn but the house was old so they tore it down, and in 1922 they built a new one and moved into it.

This farm had a large woods, with a lot of saw timber and father had a man to move his sawmill back in the woods, where he cut the trees, sawed the timber and delivered it to Grand Rapids for a set price. He kept enough lumber for his own building work, and built two five room houses down on the southwest corner of the farm, on the paved highway, State Road No. 57, where it crosses Shaner Avenue Road, running east from U.S. Highway No. 131, north of Rockford, Michigan to Greenville, Michigan. They sold this farm in the spring of 1950 and had an auction. Then, they moved into the corner house next to Shaner Avenue Road, where they lived until both of them passed away.

He was 75 and 76 years old when he built the two houses, and he did most of the work himself. He didn't do much work other than to take care of the two properties, after that.

Charles was 87 years and 13 days old when he died.

Myrtle was 88 years, 10 months old when she died.

Signed, Clarence E. Eubank.

I requested Clarence E. Eubank, Charles' son, to give me a historical panorama of his father's married life, which he did, and I have recorded it almost verbatim, as told by him in his own words.

I think that I can honestly say without question, that Charles F. Eubank was the hardest working man throughout his entire life, that I ever knew.

When he died he was quite comfortably well-fixed, financially, most of which he obtained after he moved to the Shaner Avenue farm, from 1926 until he retired, after selling the farm in 1950.

CLARENCE AND FAMILY

A partial biography of a nice family that really made good, by successful planning, hard work and honesty. Stick-to-it-ivity is the key word, which really eliminates the process of the so-called rolling stone.

I requested Clarence to write up something about his life activity, and here it is in his own words, "The Writer."

THE STORY OF SOME GUY

Starting back in the fall of the year 1918, after the end of the World War, I was 21 years old on November 15th, and I had met La Vinnie Curtis, who eventually became my wife, and we started planning our lives together.

At this time I was doing carpenter work with my father, Charles F. Eubank, contracting and building houses.

In 1921 and 1922, when Vinnie was going to college in Kalamazoo, Michigan, I took a job there also, as receiving clerk for the Cornwell Wholesale Grocery Company.

It was a good job and I liked the work, but later on I decided to go back to Grand Rapids and build some houses for myself.

I bought a lot and built a very nice house on it and sold it, taking in three lots as part payment and the balance in cash; then I was in business for myself.

I built on all three of the lots, sold one and traded one for this farm on Four Mile Road Northwest and on July 11, 1925 Vinnie and I were married. We lived in the fourth house at 746 Coit Avenue.

At this time Vinnie was teaching at Coit Avenue School. Then, in May of 1927 I started to work as a salesman for the Mathews Sales Company, General Motors Sales And Service.

This I liked and I did well until in the fall of 1929 when they went out of business.

However, they recommended me to A. L. Donaldson, the Packard distributors for Western Michigan, who wanted me to take over their used car division, which had about ninety cars in stock.

I took the job, selling and preparing ads for both of the Grand Rapids papers, everyday.

In the spring of 1932 they decided to quit the business, which they did.

At this time Vinnie and I decided to move out on the farm. We were very happy out there, so I traded the Coit Avenue house for the farm adjoining this one on the west.

La Vinnie then quit teaching and helped me out there; then on April 1, 1936, Curtis came to live with us - he was a nice big 8½ pounder. We had a boy growing up to help us! On November 24, 1962, after 26 years plus of hard work, planning and improving, and much happiness, Curtis and Ellen Clayton were married. They built a new home a short distance west of the farm home and live there with their two darling girls, ages six and two years respectively, which grandpa loves so much.

Signed, Clarence E. Eubank.

ROY FRANKLIN EUBANK

Roy Franklin Eubank, (the son of Charles F. and Myrtle L. (Berringer) Eubank, and Edna M. (Dingman) Eubank, born January 3, 1904, were united in marriage February 28, 1923, at Rockford, Michigan.

To this union were born two children.

Edward Leroy Eubank, born October 17, 1925;

Doris M. Eubank, born December 21, 1927.

Both were born in Rockford, Michigan.

Roy and Edna owned several farms in Michigan during their early life span, most of which were in the White Tail deer habitat, and in the year of 1942 my wife, Ethel and I spent the deer hunting season with them on their farm, near Paris, Michigan. The second week Roger and Gladys Pope and daughter, Patricia, came and Roy and his son, Edward, Roger and I made the second trip to near Irons, Michigan with our tent and equipment.

We spent Thanksgiving in the woods and we had a very enjoyable time. We spent the hunting season of 1944 there also, and no one could avoid having an enjoyable time when associated with Roy and Edna Eubank's superb hospitality.

Roy, like his father, was a farmer and builder. When I retired from my work with the Belleville Lumber And Supply Company at South Bend, Indiana, in 1955 and sold the farm, I moved to Kissimmee, Florida, and worked for some time with the Kissimmee Lumber Company of that city, in the capacity of sales and service, and did contracting for the company. Construction men were scarce there at that time, and I wrote Roy and Edna to come down there and work for me, which they did, and he and my brother, Lessel, who had moved to Kissimmee in 1954, built a new home for one of my customers, and also remodelled a house for me that I had purchased for a home; then in 1956 they returned home to Michigan.

In the year 1962, his father, Charles and mother, Myrtle, both passed away, and he obtained his father's home place and lived there until 1974, when they purchased a mobile home and placed it on their son-in-law and daughter, Lawrence and Dorris Teeter's farm, near Paris, Michigan, where they plan to spend the remainder of their declining years.

Their present address as of November 30, 1974:

Paris, Michigan, RFD# 1, Box 143 A, zip 49338.

TWYLAH E. HAZELTON

Twylah E. (Eubank) Hazelton, (the daughter of Charles F. and Myrtle L.(Berringer) Eubank,) and Andrew Hazelton, born February 3, 1913, near Kent City, Michigan, were united in marriage July 20, 1936.

To this union no children were born.

Present address as of February 1, 1974:
11640 Shaner Avenue, Northeast, RFD# 3, Cedar Springs,
Michigan, 49319.

A biographical sketch of their married life as told by Twylah Hazelton in her own words.

We were married July 20, 1936. The next year we started farming for ourselves, April 3, 1937. A devastating tornado destroyed our buildings, except house and tool shed. We had a lot of debris to clean off our fields, rebuild our buildings, along with the farming. We were in the milk house when it was destroyed; a miracle we were not hurt. None of our cattle were hurt, as large timbers came through the upper floor between them as they were in their stanchions. After so much work and worry from his mother's stroke and death, Andrew had a heart attack and wasn't able to work for some time- then not hard work. We changed from dairy cattle to beef and hired help for the heavy work. In 1960 we decided to take a short vacation and took Clarence and Vinnie with us - toured all of the U. P. of Michigan, also the northern part of Lower Michigan, visiting all places of interest and had a wonderful time.

By 1962 we decided to sell the farm, to the son and family of friends of ours, except a tract of ten acres along Highway 57 where we moved into a house there and retired.

We purchased a travel trailer and Clarence and Vinnie, with us, travelled to Sarnia, Canada, on to Niagara Falls - through beautiful farming country - on around through the Province of Ontario, took a boat ride through the thousand islands and many other interesting sights, over to Sault Sainte Marie, took the ferry back to Michigan, and on home.

The fall of 1962, Clarence and Vinnie left with us for Florida, stopping along the way at Mammoth Cave, Rock City, Licons birthplace, all other interesting places, travelling all over Florida, visiting the tourist attractions, out to Key West, through the Naval Station there, across the Everglades to Flamingo, on the southwest tip of Florida, came back through Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, on north to Michigan.

The summer of 1964 we bought a nice cottage on Thunder Lake near Manistique, U. P., Michigan. After Labor Day we took Clarence with us from the cottage, went to Sault Sainte Marie, crossed over the new international bridge into Canada, travelled all the way around Lake Superior, with a few side trips, one to Kenora, Canada, a great summer vacation place, back into Minnesota, over to Charles City, Iowa, and Lansing, Minnesota, to visit our cousins, across through Illinois into Michigan, and home. That winter we went to Florida again, having Clarence with us for more sightseeing, going through Ohio on a different highway, came back last of March, through the Smokey Moutains, (this was beautiful.)

The fall of 1965, we asked Clarence to go with us to travel the southwest all over Texas, saw President Johnson's home ranch, through the oil well territory, into New Mexico, through the Carlsbad Caverns, Salt Flats and other interesting places, into Arizona to Tombstone, Tuscon, Phoenix, GrandCanyon, beautiful Painted Desert, petrified forest, etc. Then to California past Art Linkletter's large motel to San Diego, to see the world's largest zoo, was very interesting - then back north past Lawrence Welk's beautiful mobile home village, where he lives in a gorgeous large mobile home, back to Tuscon, Arizona, down into Old Mexico at Nogales, had a lot of fun and bought some souvenir's at bargain prices.

It was too cold in Arizona to suit us, so we left for Zephyrhills, Florida, and bought a new mobile home. We had it set up on a lot in Tropical Park, all ready to come back to the next fall; since then we have spent the winters there.

In the spring of 1971, we went home through the eastern state going through the New Chesapeake Bay Tunnel and bridges, from Norfolk to Cape Charles, past the island where the small wild horses propagate; from which our Vice-President, Jerry Ford, got one for the zoo in his home city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and from there over to Washington, D. C., and then on home.

In 1972 we decided to sell our cottage at Thunder Lake in the U. P., Michigan, and the extra lot we had there.

In 1973 we sold off some for building sights; then we had a new house built on our land facing on Shaner Avenue around the corner from where we did live.

Now, in 1974 we just sold our mobile home in Florida and will return to our new home in Michigan, and see how the energy crisis develops before planning any more trips.

On November 21 st she fell and fractured a hip bone and was taken to the Marion General Hospital for surgery, and it turned out to be a very bad break.

Her condition improved slowly, and after about two weeks they moved her to River View Manor, a convalescent center, where they had the facilities to give her proper therapy.

However, in less than three weeks, she grew worse and developed a massive congestion, and passed away on Christmas day, December 25, 1969.

IN MEMORIAL

Urshell's mother, Viola Bell (Eubank) Pulley was this writer's only sister, and Urshell was born when I was eleven years old, and I spent much of my teenage years in their home. I loved to hunt rabbit, fox, squirrel and quail, and they were plentiful in those days, and we had a lot of territory to hunt over, consequently, with "Ursh," as we called him, at my side, we learned to love and respect each other - a respect that was to continue throughout our entire span of life. Urshell was a "good" hunting dog enthusiast, and at one time had some of the best fox and coon dogs in that part of the country, and competed in many fox runs and roved the wooded lands of Grand County, Indiana many nights in search of racoon, however, later on after he had remarried, he obtained a couple different strains of rabbit hounds and settled down to farming and as a pass time, trained his dogs for hunting.

He also was a gun fancier, and owned a case of fine hunting guns.

He worked for the Aniconda Insultaed Wire Works in Marion, Indiana for many years, and when he retired from their service (in 1962) the employeer's of the company gave him a 30 - 30 Calibre Deer Rifle for a going away present. That year I hunted deer near Harrison, Michigan and Ethel and I stayed with some friends, Clare and Harriot Heater, who owned a nice home about six miles out of Harrison, and I invited him to come there and hunt with me, which he did.

I think the second day out he got a running shot at a buck - about an eight point, and broke of its hind legs, but it went on a short distance where it was finished off by another hunter, who claimed the deer. He said, "Unk, I would rather hunt rabbits when I can hear my dogs bark." That was his only deer hunting trip.

In the year of 1969, while preparing ground for crops on his mother's farm, his father having passed away, he had a severe heart attack. His mother had him taken to Memorial Hospital in Marion, Indiana, where he was revived. He lived about a year but never regained his health, and passed away on June 18, 1970.

He was laid to rest in Garden Of Memories Cemetery where his father and mother were buried.

His wife, Margaret, is still living in the farm home about seven miles north of Marion and 1½ miles west of State Road No. 9, known as the Huntington Pike.

parents, moved to Landess, Indiana in the year of 1922.

He attended the New Light Church there, where he met Edith E. Pulley, who, with her parents, Jesse Arney and Viola Bell Pulley, attended the same church.

He was converted there - joined the church and became the acting Sunday School Superintendant, and served in that capacity for ten years.

During this time, in 1923, Roy started working for the Clover Leaf Railroad, "that ran through Landess," as a section hand, and in 1924 he and Edith were married.

They continued to live there and Roy still worked for the railroad, and in 1941 he was promoted to track foreman and continued to serve in that capacity for 22 years.

He had been afflicted with a respiratory ailment for many years and in 1964 he was forced to retire from his work by disability on railroad retirement benefits.

They had a summer cottage on the banks of Saw Mill Lake, one of the Barbee Lakes, East of Leesburg, Indiana, and in 1969 they moved there to be near their son and daughter-in-law, Bryce and Orpha. They later added more room to their cottage, making it a year around home, and sold their previous home at Landess. Roy and Edith are members of the New Barbee Community Church, which overlooks Little Barbee Lake, near their home, where Roy is the yead Usher and Deacon, and Edith is a Deaconess.

They are indeed very fine people and much loved by all who knew them.

The following article was written by request for publication in the Eubank Genealogy History, by Orpha Foster, the wife and very able assistant of The Rev. Bryce H. Foster:

QUOTE

Bryce and I rededicated our lives to the Lord Jesus Christ in the spring of 1964 in Florida at the First Baptist Church at Wabasso, where we were spending the winter.

We were both baptised on Easter Sunday.

We came home and started looking for a place to work, and after a few disappointments we ended up at the Barbee Illustrated Sunday School, helping an old gentleman, F. B. Miller, who had started this some ten or twelve years before.

In December of 1965, we organized the present church, incorporating it with the State, under the name of the Barbee Community Church, which is non-denominational.

Bryce started studying as soon as we rededicated and got some material from correspondence schools and was soon filling in, teaching at our very informal meetings.

After a while we got a retired minister in for a year and then a seminary student for another year, and then Bryce took over the Sunday services.

On May 17, 1970, the church had him ordained. When he was ordained he laid aside his contracting tools and took up the Bible entirely. Only when we decided to build this church building did he ever use those tools.

He used his knowledge of building, with a very able architect, Oren E. Eubank, to finish a very nice $68,000.00 church building.

We are thrilled with our church building, but even more important is the church that God is building through Christ and his people.

This church is composed of living stones, with Christ the chief cornerstone. Peter 2; 5.

We can all be a part of this church as living stones.

The Bible tells us, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Romans 3; 23, and that the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord; Romand 6; 23.

God wants all to be a member of the church, and he provided the way. If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart, that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved, Romans, 10; 9.

A PARTIAL BIOGRAPHY OF THE WRITER

My father, Henry James Eubank, like many of his ancestors, was a plaster mason and builder by trade. He was raised on a farm and during his life time his love for the country drew him back to the farm many times. Therefore, I also grew up to be a farmer and builder.

In those days very few school children had the opportunity to complete their education, and none of our family advanced their public schooling beyond the 8th grade.

I worked an apprenticeship in the carpentry field with a very able builder, while still single.

I married my first wife, Hattie Elizabeth Heinley, on April 5, 1906, and our son Austin was born January 7, 1907, and on September 24, 1907 Hattie passed away.

When Austin was two years old he developed a very serious condition in his neck, and his doctor advised me to take him to the University Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan, for examination, which I did.

He was confined there for 13 weeks and they were successful in diagnosing and curing the ailment.

While there, I worked on the university engineering building that was being built at that time, and became closely acquainted with Edward E. Sharrer from Detroit, who was the construction superintendent on the job for the Koch Construction Company, who were the builders. Over some of the weekends that followed Ed took me home with him. He had a lovely family and I appreciated visiting with them, and I think this was responsible for my trip to Detroit later on.

When Austin was released from the hospital I returned with him to my father's home on the farm near South Whitley, Indiana, where I had met Ethel Naomi Sickafoose, who later became my wife.

In the spring of 1910, I purchased a building lot in the newly laid out Lee Addition, in South Whitley, and digging a basement by hand, I started building a residence, with which to house us when we were married, and on July 12th Ethel and I were married.

At this time, I was doing mostly plastering and cement work for a livelihood, and was desirous of expanding my knowledge in the construction field, so, in the summer of 1911 I packed my tools and leaving Ethel to look after the home I went to Detroit. Upon arriving I made my way to my friend's home, the Sharrer's.

Ed informed me that Jackson and Maurice, General Building Contractors, had started a manufacturing building for the Metal Products Corporation, who manufactured rear axles for the Hudson automobiles. I immediately contacted them on the ground's where they were staking out the building, and was told that they already had their organization formed, but that I could go to work with my tools until something better turned up. I did just that, and it turned out just that way. The construction foreman went on a binge and I was asked to take over his duties while he was away. I stayed in that position until the job was completed.

I also had charge of the shipping dock buildings, and just as we were finishing, I had the misfortune of falling from a slipping ladder and landed with my shin bones under me on the top of a 6" concrete driveway curb, which kept me from working for several weeks.

I wrote my wife and had her come up and stay a while with me at Sharrer's, and we took a sightseeing trip by boat to Put In Bay, in Lake Erie. Then, as I was unable to work as yet, I returned home with her.

In the late fall of 1911 my brother, Charles and I went to Manistee, Michigan, by train to look for some timber land, and Hammel Kahn And Company of Manistee took us to see several places. We first made a trip to Bear Lake, in a Packard seven passenger car. That day it snowed and drifted and turned very cold, and we had to abandon the Packard when it stalled with a bursted wheel housing, and they picked us up in a two horse sleigh and returned us to Bear Lake.

The next day we used the sleighs, but we didn't find anything we wanted those two days.

The same company had a three-quarter section of land near Hoxeyville that was partially covered with saw timber, but the weather was rough and many roads blocked. However, we could get within one mile of this land by the R. G. Peters narrow gage logging railroad that ran from East Lake at Manistee, to Hoxeyville; then on to their farthest logging camp, Old Camp S., about nine miles north and east of Hoxeyville.

On the third morning we went across East Lake to Peters Saw Mill and boarded the Caboose of the early train to Camp S. They stopped the train at Ferguson Crossing about one mile south of the south line of the land and we walked the remainder of the trip and looked the timber over.

This land laid in Wexford County, about three or four miles north and a little west of Hoxeyville, and the narrow gage ran across the northeast corner of the northeast quarter of the section, where the bulk of the saw timber lay on its way from Hoxeyville to Camp S., and afforded a place to deck timber, accessible to the railroad where the R. G. Peters Company could load it on cars and cart it to their mill at East Lake.

There was a good gravel road running North from Hoxeyville, and just north of town a good gravel road running east and west, intersected, and about a mile west of this intersection near Ferguson Crossing, the road went north - then ended at the south line of the section in which the land in question was located.

The road department had just let a contract to grade and gravel a new section of road from the end of this road north to the center of the section; thence west $\frac{1}{2}$ mile to the west line of the section; thence north on the west section line to the north section line where it connected with a road running east and west, which later became State Road No. 55. This new road gave us access to the southwest and southeast quarters, on the center line of the section and cornered with the southwest corner of the northeast quarter, which was okay.

We decided to buy this land, so we returned that evening on the same train loaded with logs for the mill.

After making arrangements to purchase we went by train to Mesick - then to Cadillac - then caught the night train on the G. R. & I. Spur to Lake City, where we called our Uncle John Franklin Eubank by phone, who operated a general store at Morey about eight or nine miles north of Lake City, and he sent his son, Ralph, in with a sleigh to pick us up. The road was very rough and icy and we had to travel in the fields a big part of the way. Ralph had just arrived home with his buck deer that evening and Aunt Lydia prepared us a venison meal; that was quite a rare experience for us from Indiana at that time, as I had not as yet started to hunt deer. After a much appreciated visit we returned to our homes.

The next summer I went up to Hoxeyville and stayed at the Carlson's, who lived just south of our land, and made arrangements to sell the timber, to the R. G. Peters Lumber Company - to be delivered at the aforesaid rail tracks, and made partial arrangements with Alf Scarbrough, to swamp out and skid, haul and deck the logs and bolts, which he later did.

On September 19, 1912, Charles and his family shipped their goods by railroad boxcar to Cadillac, Michigan, and the family travelled over land by covered wagon, (see the life of Charles Franklin Eubank for details of this trip, Page 134.)

Father and Mother, and Brother Lessel also had gone there, presumably at the same time, and in late October Ethel and I loaded our household goods into a railroad boxcar and billed them to Cadillac, and we and Austin went by passenger train to Cadillac, where Lessel and Clarence met us with two wagons and teams, and hauled our belongings to the land where we were assembling for the purpose of cutting the timber.

When we arrived there we found Charles had built a small house on the southwest quarter of the section and Father, Mother and Lessel were starting a house on the southeast quarter, so I built a two room shack on the same quarter, about forty rods north of their place.

I just got it finished and our goods moved in at night, and when I opened the door the next morning the snow fell in across the floor. The snow as I remember now, was about thirty inches deep on the level; there were many logs near, but we had to hunt and uncover them so as to get fire wood, as we had not as yet had time to prepare for the winter that was upon us.

I hired a swamper and a skidder and father, Charles, Lessel and I cut logs all winter; as I remember, Clarence and Roy, Charles' boys, and my son, Austin, went to school, to a little country school that stood on the east side of the road just before the old road entered the newly made road at the south edge of our land, and just west of the Carlson farm buildings. Of course, they took their place in helping with the timber cutting (when they weren't in school). I remember that I was elected on the school board, just about as soon as we arrived there, and had to hire the teacher and manage the school business, for which at that time our work was donated.

We cut about 300,000 board feet of saw logs, and 300 cords of bolts, with crosscut saws and had them hauled and decked or corded, near the railroad as previously mentioned, where they were loaded on bunk cars, and hauled to the R. G. Peters Saw Mill at East Lake, Manistee.

We ceased cutting timber when the snow left in the spring, and Charles moved over on the Peterson farm, where there were good buildings, and ample open land to farm. Father, mother and Lessel decided to return to Marion, Indiana and I cleared up some rather open land on the quarter near the buildings that father and Lessel had erected and moved into their place, as they had a barn.

I purchased a cow, so as to have our own milk and butter, bought back their horse, which I had previously owned, and a spare horse that Charles had, and started farming, with the idea to continue with the timber cutting come winter, and snow to work on.

I raised Navy beans and potatoes and had a fair crop; then late in the summer a timber fire started somewhere not far from Manistee, and travelled all the way to near Hoxeyville, and in spite of our fighting, along with help from the land owners, it completely destroyed our timber.

We managed to keep it from burning our buildings, but it did destroy our cabin that we had built over in the timber territory, in which was stored most of our timber cutting tools.

I felt that there was nothing left here to look forward to at the time, so in the fall of 1913 I disposed of the livestock, buggy and what farming tools I had, and Ethel took me to Harrietta to catch the train for Detroit, with the understanding that as soon as I got settled, she would follow.

I got a job as carpenter boss on the 1200 foot manufacturing building that was just starting for the Dodge Brothers Manufacturing Company at their plant sight. A strike soon developed among the construction workers, which tied up the job. I talked to the employment agent for the Dodge Company, and he gave me a bench job in the factory. I could not stand breathing the metal dust in that department, so soon went looking for another job.

My friend, Edward Sharrer, heard about the tieup on the Dodge job, and knowing that I had gone to work there, called me, saying that he had talked to the general superintendant for the Larou Construction Company, who had the contract for the Mack Printing Company to be built on the corner of John R. and Elizabeth Streets, which had already begun construction and they were in need of a man in my capacity. I went to the job, and talked to the superintendant and he gave me a job as assistant foreman, which developed into construction superintendant, which lasted until the nine story steel reinforced concrete building was finished. When I landed this job I wrote for my wife, Ethel, and she had Charles load and ship the household goods, to Detroit, and she came on the train and we started housekeeping again, in an apartment above Alva Eubank's and John Bowman's Grocery Store and Meat Market, on Hamilton Boulevard, Detroit.

From the mack job I went to the bakery job on Grand River, for the same contractors, until the job was ready to pour the first floor above the subbasement. At that time I decided to go to Marion, Indiana, where my father, mother and brother, Lessel had gone, when they left Wexford County, Michigan. I had succeeded this far in acquiring much knowledge and experience in structural steel and steel reinforced concrete construction, and was very much interested in architectural designing and drawing, so when we arrived in Marion, I set about to prepare myself for the occasion. I signed up with the international correspondence school for a course in architectural drawing and engineering, and while I was studying this I did contracting of residences and farm buildings, and general construction, in and around Marion.

Eventually I had prepared myself to design and draw plans for buildings, and had drawn a few house jobs for a contractor that I knew in Detroit.

While the war with Germany was in progress and construction work was slow, I operated a real estate and insurance business, but as soon as business picked up again I went back into the building business.

In 1924 I, with my wife and mother, visited an aunt in South Bend, and while there a cousin of mine who worked for the Indiana and Michigan Electric, mentioned that the company was getting ready to build a substation east of Notre Dame and was looking for a man to supervise the construction; said if I was interested he would take me out to see them. I was, and we called on the engineer at the sight, which resulted in me accepting the job.

During the time this was under construction we moved to South Bend. We completed the job late in the fall of 1924; then I did some drafting. My first job here was to draw the plans for a church at Bertrand, Michigan, just north of the Indiana and Michigan State line.

The following year, 1925, I built a new residence at 1825 Brookfield Street in Marquette Park Addition, where we lived for a few years. At the time, I had taken a job doing the drawing for residences in Marquette Park, Woodlawn and South Studebaker Additions to South Bend, and the supervision of construction for same, for the Home Crafters of South Bend.

By about 1928 we had sold the Brookfield residence and built another at 2013 Freemont Street, in the same addition and I had gone to work for the Belleville Lumber & Supply Company, who owned and operated 11 lumber yards within a radius of 25 miles of South Bend, and at that time were getting ready to build the 12th yard in South Bend.

These yards belonged to William H. Hass and they already had a yard at Mishawaka, Indiana, and his first owned home yard was at North Liberty, Indiana.

This yard was to have a modern up to date mill, electrically operated, and a dry kill, in which to dry lumber.

My job was to draw plans and specifications for prospective home builders or owners, sell materials, and supervise construction. I also wrote the contracts for all construction, where I drew the plans, between the owner and the Belleville Lumber & Supply Company.

I started in by helping to construct the buildings for the new yard and mill. I worked in the aforesaid capacity for many years. In about 1936, due to the war, and when the depression was at its lowest ebb, only two or three houses were built in both South Bend and Mishawaka, and Belleville's management and sales group had diminished from a healthy number of more than twenty employees to a meager eight or nine, including the truck drivers, and every employee was forced to take a two weeks vacation without pay, and my salary had diminished to $15.00 a week, for 6 - 9 hour days. I decided to try something else, so I joined partnership with an old grocery man and we rented a two room store building, on Portage near downtown; cut out a part of the partition and stocked a meat and vegetable room on one side and a grocery on the other side, and started in business. This was during the time when the W. P. A. was in force, and the U. S. Government gave the workers a meager check of a few dollars, payable every two weeks, and distributed surplus foods to the needy.

We did a reasonably large business, but at a very small profit. I have a picture taken of the front of the store building, from the sidewalk, showing some advertisements, which, in those days were painted on the glass of the display windows. One of these adds said hamburger (3 lbs., 25¢), and many other meat and grocery items at comparable prices.

This business was out of my scope of experience, so as soon as the worst part of this terrible depression had ceased, and the Belleville Lumber Company's business had begun to climb, I went back to my old job.

While operating the store we lived in an apartment near the store, and rented our 2013 Fremont Street home furnished; then, after selling the store business we vacated the renters and returned there for a while; then, purchased a four apartment house at 2507 Linden Avenue and moved there.

We lived in the ground floor apartment, and rented the three others, and sold the Fremont Street property.

During this time, in about 1942, I purchased a farm of eighty acres, three miles North, and one mile east of Dowagiac, Michigan, on the Attwood Road, and in the year of 1943 we did considerable remodelling of the house and farm buildings, and rented the farm to a rather old couple that thought they could still farm, but really they were too old to even try farming, so I discontinued my services with the Belleville Lumber Company in 1944 and moved to the farm. I purchased some farming machinery, brood dows, milch cows, chickens, and a span of three and four year old horses, and started farming.

This was at a time when, unless you had priorities, you could not purchase a tractor, so I was compelled to farm with horses; then, eventually, I got an opportunity to purchase a John Deere tractor from a neighbor and sold the horses. At that time we did general farming, milked cows, separated the milk, and sold the cream to the creamery.

We raised some wheat to sell, but mostly raised corn and oats, alfalfa and brohm hay and fed most of the crops to chickens, hogs and beef cattle. We specialized on white rock chickens, thoroughbred duroc hogs and beef cattle, raising our own chickens and hogs, and buying young western beef cattle to feed for market. We rented extra ground for corn and purchased only minerals and supplements to balance our feeds. This experience we found to be profitable, and we all loved the farm very much. However, there came a time in 1953, when my wife was seventy years old, and I was following close behind, so we decided to quit farming.

I had the opportunity of returning to the Belleville Lumber & Supply Company and take up where I had left off in 1944.

By this time our son, Robert, had completed his time with the U. S. Service, and education at Michigan State College, and had married, so they took over the farm work and Ethel and I returned to South Bend; rented a furnished apartment, and in February of 1953 I began once more to work for the Belleville Lumber Company, who by this time had turned the yard over to the W. H. Hass Wholesale Department of the company, and moved the retail lumber and building materials department to East Jefferson Street, downtown South Bend, Indiana.

I did real well financially the last hitch; was there from February, 1953 until January, 1955, when I retired from Belleville. During this last period I drew the plans for several new homes and commercial buildings, and much remodelling, and when I let the jobs to contractors I usually supervised the construction for the owners and Belleville Lumber Company.

My last two jobs that I did before retiring I contracted through Belleville Lumber Company. One, a country residence near the Indiana State Road No. 55, west of Mishawaka, and the other, the Gold Star Bakery on Western Avenue, South Bend, Indiana, which detained me somewhat in getting started on our vacation in Florida.

We went to Florida in January or February of 1955, going first to Kissimmee to see my brother, Lessel and family, who had gone there in the fall of 1954 to make Kissimmee their home.

We visited them there; then went over to Daytona to see my cousin, Alva Eubank and family; then on to Wabasso and the Atlantic Coast where we visited two of my cousins and their families, the Swaims and Clocks, on my mother's side of the house. Here we stayed a month and did some Indian River and Atlantic surf fishing. We then toured other portions of Florida sightseeing and returned home in March.

We had the farm up for sale, and after selling it, we had a public auction, selling the livestock, farming equipment, household furniture and all but a medium sized U haul load of personal belongings, attached to the trailer hitch, we boarded our auto for Florida.

We arrived at Kissimmee, Florida about the first of May, 1955, and rented a furnished apartment for three months, and during this time we purchased a one story house with a 100 foot square corner lot on Ingram Street, which we remodelled and added to, making an extra three room apartment with bath and front porch, to rent. Afterwards, I used the apartment as an office and drawing room. We then purchased a mobile home and set it in the Brockway Court, one mile south of Wabasso. This was about 2½ miles from Wabasso Beach and about nine miles from the Sebastian Inlet, from the ocean to the Indian River, which took in most of our river and surf fishing territory, and was 85 miles from our home in Kissimmee.

The Metzgers from South Bend, who were general contractors, and whom I had serviced, from the Belleville Lumber Company, for several years, had purchased the Kissimmee Lumber Company, and requested my assistance, and as soon as we were settled I went to work part time for them, drawing plans and assisting them in sales.

I was 69 years old at this time, and it was my intention to retire when I decided to go to Florida. However, between the lumber company's work, which included much F. H. A. drawing, and demands by the general public, it seemed to have changed my mind somewhat, and I was forced to lock up at times and retreat to our hide-out at Wabasso, in order to get some recreation and rest.

I loved my work very much, and in 1957 I drew the plans for the Elks Temple Building, Kissimmee Elks Lodge No. 1873, and supervised the construction for the Elks.

I continued with my work here until May 1, 1960, when I decided that it was time for me to retire in reality.

During this time my wife, Ethel's eyesight had failed - having had an operation on the right eye for glaucoma, the left eye being completely blind. We decided to return to our residence in Indiana.

We sold our place in Kissimmee, lock, stock and barrel, rented a U haul, and loaded it with our personal items, and returned to our son, Bobs, who lived near to our old farm neighborhood, until we could locate a place to live in that vicinity.

We purchased our present location at Twin Lakes, about a mile across the fields east from our old farm home, and installed a mobile home there, and for the next five years we spent from May 1st, to November 1st here, and from November 1st to May 1st, in our mobile home in Florida, and this to me was the ideal arrangement for us.

In 1966 my wife had to have a serious operation, and because of this, and not being able to see we have never returned to Florida since. I have discontinued doing any more work for the public. I am now 88 years old, and my last job of any importance was designing and drawing the plans for a non denominational church, known as the Barbee Community overlooking little Barbee Lake, in Kosciusko County, Indiana. The minister, a former building contractor, and now an ordained minister, who is my sister's daughter's son, the Rev. Bryce H. Foster, (see pages 150 and 152).

All of my life, since 1900, I have been an ardent lover of hunting and fishing, and have spent much of my spare time doing just that. Since 1940 I have participated in many deer hunting trips, both the Michigan U. P., and the L. P. in search of the wily white tail. For the past few years I have confined my deer hunting to Cass County territory, where I have killed three deer, the last of which I killed in 1972, when I was 86 years old, and I am planning on hunting again in November, 1974. I had a shot at a big rack last November, but he was a little to far away for the shot gun, and I can't use my 300 savage in this territory. So long for now,

Oren E. Eubank.

He worked as an F. B. I. agent in New York and New Jersey, but didn't like the work or territory, so he quit with an honorable discharge and came home in the fall of 1952.

He then farmed the home place until the fall of 1955, when he took a position with the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, as supervisor, with offices in the Cass County Courthouse, at Cassopolis, Michigan.

He left there in 1960 and joined the Bendix Missile Corporation, located in Mishawaka, Indiana, as buyer and subcontractor administrator, where he still is in 1974.

His wife, Marion, is a graduate of Stevens College at Columbia, Missouri, having majored in clothing design and horsemanship. She is a horse fancier, trainer and judge, and 4H and F.F.A. worker.

They live on their 100 acre farm, near Dowagiac, Michigan, known as the Busy Bee Ranch. Have a nice home and a horse training track, and the boys raise and feed calves for F.F.A. competition each year, to be shown and judged at the Cass County Fair, where their father, Robert, is the Cass County Fair Association secretary and treasurer.

They each fed and showed two steers; John had the reserve champion steers in both the short horn and Charlaise breeds, and Robert Merritt had the champion Angus steer, and a Charlaise runner-up, that didn't place.

John's reserve champion short horn weighed in at 855 pounds, and sold for .95¢ per pound, or $812.25, and his reserve champion Charlaise weighed in at 1160 pounds, and sold for .70¢ per pound, or $812.00, a total for the two steers of $1,624.25.

SKETCH BY SON ALFRED

As I look back on the life of my father, Alva Alfred Ruble, it seems that it was rather legendary. His move to Michigan by covered wagon - leaving loved ones and acquaintances and the "good land," to dwell among strangers, and on rather poor land. Then there were many subsequent moves - all the way to southern Tennessee and back. To us now as we look back, he was something of the type of Abraham, as he to was a friend of God, and had daily communion with God; family wise, his was somewhat on the order of the Patriarch Jacob's, except eight sons and one daughter, instead of twelve sons and one daughter.

God moves in mysterious ways - his wonders to perform. Why did Alva Ruble leave loved ones to go into a strange land - then to other strange lands in subsequent moves? This has often been the topic of conversation among his sons: Exposed to all kinds of communities and living conditions as the family grew up and gave each child a wide range of experience. The family became tradesmen, businessmen, church workers and ministers. Like Abraham, Alva Ruble was zealous for God's cause; a Prophet in his own right; a farmer - preacher. It is worthy to note that although he was never a full time pastor except for two years, his three youngest sons have served 33 years each for a total of 99 years in the active ministry, at the end of the present year; and yes, our mother, Ida Peal, was indeed a "Mother in Israel," and stood by our father all the way.

Charles Elmer Ketner, born September 1, 1883;

John Floyd Ketner, born July 1, 1893;

Daisy Pearl Ketner, born July 19, 1895.

EULOGY BY THE WRITER

Joseph B. Ketner was a blacksmith by trade, and at one time prior to moving to Michigan, they lived in Van Buren, Grant County, Indiana, and he owned and operated a shop, about a block or two north of the main street crossing there, and at the same time we lived on the main east and west street, a few city blocks west of the main street crossing. Our families were very closely associated. William Henry Ketner, "Bill we called him," was away from home, out west much of the time. Charles was a little older than I, but he and I spent much of our idle time together. Floyd was seven years younger than I, and Pearl five years younger, and of course, the difference in our ages kept us apart generally. My family missed them very much when they moved to Michigan, which was July 1, 1905, and I never saw Uncle Joseph again after that.

They eventually moved to Battle Creek, Michigan, and lived there until Uncle Joe's death.

He was buried in Rees Cemetery at Battle Creek.

Eliza Jane (Eubank) Ketner, and Ida Rosana (Eubank) (Miller) (Shaffer, were sisters and both married brothers, Joseph B. and John Nelson Ketner, respectively, who by this time, had been dead many years.

Aunt Jane lived with her sister, Ida for sometime previous to her death, and I remember on one occasion not long before she passed away, my wife, Ethel, and I, were visiting with Marcella and Jay Jones, and other relatives around Lake City, Michigan, and we called at Aunt Ida's home to see she and Aunt Jane, and when we entered the house, Aunt Jane was sitting on a chair near the door. I walked past her and when I turned to look at her, she exclaimed, "well, if it isn't Emmett."

I was amazed at her aptness of mind and memory at her advanced age. She passed away April 13, 1950, in Lake City, Michigan, at the ripe old age of 95 years, 7 months, and 19 days, the longest span of life of any one person recorded in this book, at the present time, January 1, 1974. She was laid to rest in the Lake City, Michigan cemetery.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Floyd was in the Army in the first ^World War. He trained in what was then Camp Pike near Little Rock, Arkansas, where many of the Oklahoma boys were sent. He didn't get across to France, but, however, slept one night on November 10, on a big transport ship, tied up at a pier in Hoboken, N. J. The Armistice was signed the next day and they were taken off the ship.

The Spanish flue epidemic held them up some in the camp, where for a time, around 25 boys died each day. Floyd just had a light touch of it right at the start, and didn't even report on sick call. He was selected for nurse duty day and night, for 10 days.

Floyd spent much of his life on farms, two of which he owned. He was from July of 1925 until February of 1932, some over six years, with an automobile valve factory in Battle Creek, Michigan.

He says during his life time he lived in six different states and in three of them twice - has seen all four sides of the U.S. A., and travelled about considerably; served some time in the U. S. Infantry in World War One, and now drawn a pension, which he says is a big help in his declining years.

Marcella Eubank, born November 8, 1904.

Lydia Jane passed away November 26, 1936, at the age of 73 years, 11 months and 7 days.

John Franklin passed away December 2, 1944, at the age of 86 years, 1 month and 1 day.

As I don't have a biology sketch of John Franklin Eubank's life, I will just write of him and his family from memory, which goes back to when Uncle John lived on a farm west, perhaps a couple of miles from Banquo, Indiana.

This was in about 1900, and I shall hereafter refer to him as "Uncle." He was about 42 years young and I was a lad of about 14 years. Along about that time he and my father did some carpentry and masonry construction work together; sort of a partnership affair. It was about this time that Arthur Eubank, Uncle Aaron Eubank's son, left his father's home in Marion, Indiana on horseback bound for Colorado. He had stopped at Uncle John's to say goodby to them, and when he left there he rode his horse along the side of the road to keep him off of the gravel.

To us boys he was a cowboy, and the next day when we stopped there to call on them, we followed the horse's hoof prints for some distance westward along the road, and when I think of it now, I sometimes wonder just what was going through our minds at that time.

Sometime later on Uncle moved to the Green farm, northeast of Lafountain, Indiana, and I remember that my brother, Everett and I, visited them there over a weekend. They were having Uncle John and Aunt Ida Ketner, and a cousin of ours, Della (Eubank) Schofield and her husband, Joseph, and others there, and on Saturday we took a tent and camping equipment to the Missinewa River, and pitched the tent near a flowing well not far from the Conner's mill, and Uncle John Eubank, Uncle John Ketner, and Joe Schofield, and us boys, camped and fished that night and the next morning.

Then, on Sunday, they served a big dinner and frozen ice cream and we had a real outing.

Uncle eventually quit farming and purchased a general store at what was known as Troy City, just a few buildings, located in the oil field on State Road 218 about four miles east from State Road 9 and 37, in Huntington County, Indiana. He operated this store, I think, until Marcella was born, which was in 1904. I was 17 years plus then, and I visited them there and went with Uncle in a two horse wagon to Warren, Indiana, to pick up a shipment of groceries for the store. Not long after that, because of Aunt Lydia's health condition, they sold out and moved to Morey, Michigan, a little place north of Lake City, on State Road No. 66, where Uncle owned and operated a general store and cream testing station.

In 1911 my brother, Charles and I purchased a three quarter section of timber land near Hoxeyville, about forty miles west of Uncle's store, and while there we went over to Cadillac and boarded a train on the G.R.&I. Branch Road to Lake City. We arrived about dark and called Uncle that we were there, and he sent Ralph in with horse and sleigh and picked us up. The snow was very deep and we drove most of the six or seven miles through the fields. Upon arrival we found that Ralph had just returned that evening with a buck deer, so we had venison to eat and a very nice visit with them and Ralph and Marcella, who were at home yet, Marcella being only seven years old.

Uncle eventually sold the store and retired to a cottage at Missaukee Lake at the edge of Lake City, and in about 1934, when Ethel and I were operating the Porgage Grocery and Market at South Bend, Indiana, Ethel, Bob and I took a fishing trip to Bear Lake, Michigan - camped in the tent at Bear Lake there for a couple of days; then drove east across country to Lake City, and camped in the Lake Missaukee Park near Uncle John's cottage for several days, and Uncle John and us had a lot of fun fishing and a wonderful visit with them. At this time several of the Eubank relatives were living there, namely Aunt Jane Ketner and her son, William; Aunt Lib Mitchell; Aunt Ida (Ketner) (Miller) Shaffer, and Edith Moon, Lena, (Eubank) (Miller), Travis's daughter. Lena and Frank Travis had purchased property there and did move there later, but were there visiting at the time. In 1919 Uncle David Eubank came east on a visit, and he and Uncle John came to Marion, Indiana and visited us for a few days, and from that time on, as long as Aunt Lydia lived, we made periodical trips to Lake City to visit them. Uncle's last visit with us was in about 1942 at our apartment house at 2507 Linden Avenue, South Bend, Indiana; early in the morning, I took him to Elkhart to catch the Big Four Train to go to his son, Alva's, at Lafountain, Indiana. He had remarked at the breakfast table that this would probably be his last trip to visit us, and as he spoke, the big tear drops rolled down over his cheeks. He loved to live, and I think he got more pleasure out of life than anyone else I ever knew.

ALVA EUBANK

Alva Eubank, (the son of John F. and Lydia (Ketner) Eubank,) and Belva (Bowman) Eubank, born November 11, 1884, were united in marriage November 25, 1903.

Claud Eubank, born March 17, 1913;

Opal Eubank, born October 15, 1919.

Opal passed away August 3, 1922 on the Bois farm.

A BIT OF HISTORY BY HIS FAMILY

After Alva and Belva were married, on November 25, 1903 he worked for Spauldings Grocery in Banquo, Indiana. His job was to equip and drive a Huxter wagon over several different routes that extended from the store in separate directions throughout the farming territory, a different route each day and on the same day each week.

He carried a complete line of groceries, cured meats and other supplies, used by the farmers, and he would drive in close to the farmhouse and the housewife could select the things she needed. Pretty much like trading at the grocery store in those days. He purchased a home in Banquo and lived there until in the fall of 1914, when he and his brother-in-law, John Bowman, started a partnership grocery and meat market on Hamilton Boulevard in Detroit, Michigan. After two years they sold out and Alva, with his family, Belva, Glen and Claud, moved to Morey, Michigan, where his father, John F. Eubank operated a grocery and cream testing station, and worked with him. After two years, in 1918, he moved his family back to Indiana to the Bois farm near Lafountain, and began a farming career. They stayed on this farm for about 22 or 23 years. In 1942 he quit farming and moved to Marion, Indiana, where they operated a food market on North Washington Street, until about 1953, when he retired and went to Daytona Beach, Florida, to live near where his youngest son, Claud lived at that time.

Belva's health had begun to fail and in 1957 they returned to Gas City, Indiana, where their son, Glen, and family lived, and purchased a home at 231 South C. Street, 46933, in order to be near them. They still reside there as of this date, January 12, 1974.

Alva is now 91 years, 8 months and 27 days of age and;

Belva is now 89 years, 2 months and 1 day of age.

Alva is the oldest Eubank born with the name "Eubank," living as of the above date. He has been in the River View Manor, a convalescent home on North Washington Street, Marion, Indiana, for the past two years.

Alva passed away March 14, 1974 and was laid to rest in their family plot in the LaFontaine, Indiana cemetery near his daughter, Opal, and his father and mother.

Ralph Clinton Eubank, (the son of John F. and Lydia (Ketner) Eubank,) and Susie (Daily) Eubank, born February 24, 1889, were married June 9, 1923.

No children were born to this union.

Ralph and Sue lived in Lansing, Michigan for many years and Ralph worked for the Olds Automobile Manufacturing Company, from which he had been retired, in about the year of 1953. At that time they lived at 815 Barns Avenue. They purchased a home at Daytona Beach, Florida shortly afterwards and moved there to live.

My wife, Ethel and I visited them there in 1955, at their home across the river, and the last time we visited them at Daytona, they had purchased an apartment uptown, near U.S. Road No. 1, and built a new garage with an apartment on the second floor where they lived, separate from the apartment. Ralph had just had a cerebral stroke and was convalescing from the affects. I believe this was in May of 1964. Ralph's brother, Alva and his son, Claud, and their families, were still living there, in Daytona, and we visited them also. Ralph and Sue, because of his physical condition, shortly afterwards, moved back to their place on Barns Avenue, Lansing, Michigan, where they remained until Ralph passed away on September 10, 1964.

Sue is at present (February 3, 1973,) approaching 84 years of age, and recently gave up caring for their home at 815 Barns Avenue, and moved to an apartment at 3031 South Washington Avenue, Apartment N. I., Lansing, Michigan, 48910.

This recording reproduced by the writer from an editorial published by the Lake City, Michigan newspaper, The Waterfront, on October 23, 1974.

MARCELLA JONES - STILL YOUNG AND ACTIVE AT 70.

Marcella Jones was two years old when her family came from Wabash County, Indiana in 1906. John and Lydia Eubank chartered a railroad boxcar where they lived in LaFountain, Indiana, and loaded one end with their household goods, and the other with their team of horses and impliments. The car was then shipped to Manton, Michigan, where John moved the contents to the Morey Store about six miles north of Lake City, on what is now State Road 66.

This was a general store which also housed the local post office, cream and pickle stations. Marcella's brother, Alva and her brother-in-law, Homer Arnold, ran the creamery and pickle departments. When Marcella was 14 years old she also helped in the business and did the paper work for the company. Life was hard for the Eubank's at the store and Marcella learned young how to work. She recalled, in 1971: I would take the team and stone boat, and pick up camp # 4's laundry from the train and take it to Mrs. Stewarts. She would wash it and I would take it back to the train, to go to camp.

I got $2.00 for this and thought it was a gold mine. The logging train ran past the Morey Store on its way to Jennings. My daddy and I would get on the caboose and deliver cases of eggs to town. I was what they termed a tomboy, herding cows to pasture and chopping wood to burn. We made it the hard way.

She also chauffeured for her father, who never drove a car, delivering supplies to the lumber camps. John also hauled freight with horse conveyances, the six miles to Lake City. Marcella "stressed" things were hard, but we were a loving family. Dad lost money in the store. Good natured, he couldn't say "no," when people needed credit, but he still had to pay for his supplies, however, we had a lot of fun. Mother was quiet, and I guess I take after dad who had the gift to gab.

Marcella still flushes with the happiness she knew when she met Jay Jones at 16. She said he caught up with me. Jay walked eight miles to see me; didn't have a car or a buggy. He was from Luther; spent four years in the U. S. Service. When the couple decided to get married, Marcella's parents told her she would have to work and earn her own clothes, so she went to Grand Rapids, where she worked in a cigar factory, and a dime store. She remembered, "I made $12. a week and paid $4. for board, room and washing to Mrs. Minnie Smith.

Jay had been working at Boyne City in a foundry. On February 12, 1923 he and Marcella were married.

They stayed in Grand Rapids until April when they came back to Lake City, due to the illness of Jay's father, who was farming. Marcella asked, "can you imagine a bride moving into a two room bachelor's quarters. He was a dear old man though and we got along so good.

Jay and Marcella were happy and had a good life, even though times were hard.

She said we milked cows and raised beans. Cream was .12¢ a pound and eggs .10¢ a dozen. I used to walk a couple of miles after the cows. Nights we went horseback riding. I used to start after the cows about four o'clock and had to hunt them and get them back in time to fix supper.

Marcella and Jay had one child, a son, James, in 1926, who married the former Wanda Everett, also of Lake City.

James had three children, a son who is a school teacher, a daughter who works at Dow Chemical in Midland, and a son still in high school.

Marcella lost Jay five years ago. She said he was a wonderful husband, and she missed his companionship very much as we got along so well together.

Today life is still rough for Marcella, who has a hard time making ends meet on $200. a month, even though she has built up her social security by doing housework. She hauls slab wood from the sawmill with her 1940 Ford tractor and small trailer. After unloading it, she bucks it up with a sweede saw to use in her combination wood and gas stove, to save fuel.

She also uses the tractor to disk her garden, where she raises and cans much of her food; runs a roto tiller and lawn mower, and raises rabbits and chickens.

Selling avon cosmetics and keeping deer hunters in season are also ways Marcella adds to her income.

She has a 1967 Ford car she drives to Midland once a month to see her family, and expects to drive it another ten years.

Marcella's sister, Daisy, past 71, is still living and she has her son and family and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

She enjoys visiting.

Even though Marcella's life hasn't been on easy street, she still bubbles over with her love of life and people. She remarked "life" is doing for others, going places and mingling with people. The kids are good to me, and I've always said it pays to be nice to everybody - you get it in return.

Probably the oldest settler in the Morey area, Marcella will be 70 years old on November 8, 1974, which makes her even more of an amazing woman.

The Water Front is also proud that Marcella Jones has been a correspondent for ten years, faithfully reporting her neighborhood news. She also belongs to the Senior Citizens Club, two ladies aids, and the Auxiliary of the American Legion.

ADDED BY THE WRITER

I am also proud to have the opportunity to record the foregoing editorial, and having enjoyed many visits with Marcella and Jay over the past several years, I am including the following hunting experience.

As previously arranged, during the open season of 1949, I drove from the farm here near where we now live, to Jay and Marcella Jone's farm home, eight miles north of Lake City on State Road 66, and where Marcella still lives at this time, and hunted the illusive white tail, in company with Jay, Ralph Eubank, Marcella's brother and her son, James.

I stayed a week - had a private double bed to sleep in and had good food prepared by Marcella herself.

The four of us rode with Ralph in his Olds Sedan and we hunted pretty much together.

James got a spike the first day - over in the hills, east of where they lived, and one day James ran into a black bear as he topped one of the hills east of the big swamp. I was over on the next ridge north and could see the bear, but wasn't close enough to get a shot. There was about four inches of snow on the ground, and looking from one knob over to another snow covered knob, even if it was quite a distance, it wasn't hard to see what was going on.

As James approached the top of the ridge, which slanted downward very quickly to the east and away from him, a black bear that was quite large, came up the slope toward him. As soon as the bear topped the ridge, James stopped, but the bear not seeing James, kept on moving toward him at a very fast pace. James brought the 30/30 carbine to bear on the animal's chest at a range of less than a hundred feet and fired. The bullet struck the bear in the left shoulder, but failed to penetrate a vital spot, and he increased his speed and ran almost into a second hunter, and both were surprised by the other's sudden appearance. I don't know if the second hunter shot at the bear, but he told me he was so scared that he couldn't think what to do, and apparently the bear was scared even worse, and in avoiding the hunter, he ran into a large rather decayed stump that was as large as he and knocked about half of it out of the ground.

I picked up the tracks at this point, and followed them down to a small swamp. I had a rule with me and I measured the length of his jumps, and until he entered the swamp they would have averaged about 19 feet each.

I picked up three of the boys at the little swamp, and we followed the tracks across the small swamp to the big swamp. Night was nearing - I had a whistle with me, so I stayed at the edge of the swamp and blew the whistle occasionally to guide them out in the event they became lost.

Ralph Eubank, who had considerable experience hunting bear, and James Jones, the one that shot the bear in the shoulder and his father, Jay, followed the tracks into the swamp. They tracked him to a small stream where he had bathed his wound and the snow and ice there was red with blood. His track then led into the more dense part of the swamp, and they came to a spot where they could no longer walk upright, so they stooped down and looked under the brush, but saw nothing but what they thought was a big black stump.

By this time it was getting quite dark, so they decided to give up the hunt until morning, when they could see and would return and proceed with the tracking.

About that time they heard a noise in the brush, and they took another look, and the black stump was gone. They came out of the swamp and we went home, and that night it came a big wet snow that hung on the bushes, so we had to give up the chase. Ralph said that he might have known that there weren't any black stumps of that dimension in that swamp and things could have been different. The hunter that was behind James, and had the experience with the bear, and another hunter, a friend of his, were staying where I did and were hunting with us that day, and they were from Lansing, Michigan.

Marcella is my first cousin, and while I didn't get my buck, I did have a nice visit with them and "enjoy every minute of my" time, just having the opportunity of being there with them.

No children were born to this union.

Mary Etta, known as Aunt Mollie, passed away January 10, 1918, at Marion, Indiana, during a week of 20 to 25 degrees of below zero weather, and more than a foot of ice and snow covered the ground.

Her body was placed in a cript in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, at Marion, until a grave could be excavated to place it in.

On November 7, 1918, Simon Alexander Keith, known as Uncle Alex, adopted Albert V. Keith, born May 22, 1911, whom they had cared for, for a few years.

On May 26, 1919, Simon Alexander Keith married Margaret L. Cunningham, who was born March 27, 1879.

They were married by the Rev. A. Stanley at Marion, Indiana.

Mary Etta passed away at the age of 57 years, 3 months, and 2 days.

ELIZABETH ANN MITCHELL

Elizabeth Ann (Eubank) Mitchell, (the daughter of Joseph and Rosana (Rohrer) Eubank,) and Elem Perviance Mitchell, born April 12, 1859, were married November 18, 1882.

To this union were born two children.

Nellie Maud Mitchell, born August 12, 1883;

Harry Verlin Mitchell, born January 11, 1885.

Nellie Maud passed away November 27, 1885 and was buried in Good Cemetery at Warren, Indiana.

Her tombstone shows that she was born August 15th in place of the 12th, as recorded above.

Elem Perviance Mitchell passed away July 15, 1934, at the age of 75 years, 2 months and 3 days.

Elizabeth Ann Mitchell, known as Aunt Lib, passed away March 19, 1942, age 79 years, 6 months and 7 days.

She and Elem are buried in Reese Cemetery, at Battle Creek, Michigan.

Elem P. Mitchell was a school teacher, a carpenter and a farmer. He taught school near Warren, Indiana, and in Jasper County, Indiana. They moved to Tennessee in about the year of 1889, and he taught school there also, about 9 years altogether. In Banner Springs he had a newspaper, The Banner Star. They lived in Morgan and Fentress Counties, in Tennessee; they moved to Indiana in 1893, (World Fair time in Chicago,) and moved to a farm near Marion, Indiana, in about 1906; later moved to North Dakota and purchased a farm there when the ground was covered with snow. Later found the land to be gravelly, and let it go back.

They moved farther south, and took a claim, and proved it, after which they moved from the farm to Tappen, North Dakota - worked some in Bismark, North Dakota; then in 1925, they left there and went to Danville, Illinois, where their son, Harry and family lived, and spent the winter; then in the spring, they went to Battle Creek, Michigan and purchased a small farm west of Battle Creek, near the Frank Travis farm, where they raised rabbits and did gardening. Mrs. Mitchell worked in Battle Creek, in a dressmaking shop for a while; Elem became unable to work, and they gave up the farm and went to Battle Creek to live. He was placed in the county hospital for care and treatment, where he passed away on July 15, 1934.

Later on Elizabeth went to Lake City, Michigan, where she made her home with her sister, Eliza Jame Ketner and her son, William Ketner, at beautiful Missaukee Lake. A few years later Elizabeth became ill, and her son, Harry Verlin, went up to see her and took her to the hospital at Cadillac, Michigan, where the doctor found her to be afflicted with cancer of the stomach.

Harry took her back to Lake City and placed her in a nursing home and she had to be fed intravenously with glucose.

Harry was obliged to return home, so he kissed his mother goodbye and left for Danville, Illinois, after which Harry's wife, Marie left Danville to go to Lake City, to be with his mother, but soon after she left, a long distance call came from someone saying that his mother was sinking fast.

Reuben Eubank met Marie at Cadillac and took her to Lake City, to the convalescent home, but Elizabeth was in a coma, and passed away in about an hour after Marie arrived there.

Harry then returned for the funeral, and after the service was over at Lake City, the cortege started for Battle Creek, where the burial was to take place in the Reese Cemetery, alongside of her husband, Elem Perviance Mitchell.

The cortege stopped a short ways south of Cadillac for lunch. It was a bitter cold day and a blizzard was in full force, and the funeral director questioned if or not they should turn back, however, they did decide to take another road away from the main storm, and finally found a direct road south to Battle Creek that was passable, and finally arrived at the cemetery some hours late and found a number of relatives bundled up in their cars and in the tent, awaiting their arrival. Among whom were Oren Emmett Eubank and his wife, Ethel, and Lessel Addison Eubank, and his wife, Bessie, who had driven up from South Bend, Indiana.

HARRY VERLIN MITCHELL

Harry Verlin Mitchell, (the son of Elizabeth Ann (Eubank) Mitchell and Elem P. Mitchell,) born January 11, 1885, at Warren, Huntington County, Indiana, and Marie Angela (Lohr) Mitchell, born April 16, 1889, were married in Edgley, Lamour County, North Dakota, on February 15, 1916.

To this union were born two daughters.

Elizabeth Maloa Mitchell, born March 29, 1918;

Margaret Marie Mitchell, born May 28, 1923.

Harry and Marie's address as of January 1, 1969:
814 Comfort Avenue, Lansing, Michigan, 48910.

Harry passed away December 24, 1969, at the above address, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 13 days.

BRIEF HISTORY AS QUOTED BY HARRY, HIMSELF

I went a short time to high school and dropped out. Went to Indiana Business College at Marion, Indiana, two winters, and took shorthand and typewriting.

Worked a short while on books in a lumber yard and in my Uncle John Ketner's planning mill.

In 1906 I went to Chicago and worked in Western Electric Plant on assembling telephone equipment. Took review course in shorthand at the Gregg School in Chicago, at night.

Got job as stenographer in an office at Woodstock, Illinois.

Then came the business slump of 1907, and my boss closed his office and left for Oregon, where he had a fruit farm.

I returned to Chicago and got a job with a boxboard sales office and worked till the summer of 1908, when I quit and went home to North Dakota to spend a summer there.

Since I was at home with my parents and they were invited to the wedding of a daughter of our good neighbor, the John J. Lohrs, I was invited too, to the wedding of Mrs. Beulah Lohr, to Mr. Claud R. Rowley. There I met the sister of Beulah, Miss M. Marie Lohr.

Later I returned to Chicago - got my old job back and worked until the next spring. I then quit and went to Indiana to work with my cousin Ellis Ruble at Warren, Indiana. This was in March of 1908.

We did concrete and carpenter work through the next winter, which at times was below zero; also did some ice cutting.

Ellis used to take large log and frame barns, with siding and roof pretty well gone, to repair, by putting in a concrete foundation, and if barn frame was to be moved to another location, would put rollers under the frame and move it over onto the new foundation.

The second winter we talked about going to Oklahoma or to Florida, to work in concrete where it wasn't freezing cold, but time came and Ellis decided not to go, but I had a little extra money and started out for Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

On the way I got acquainted with a young fellow who was going to the same place and we roomed together a while after we got there.

I didn't find a job there so I went to Chandler, Oklahoma to see Uncle Joe Ketner's family. While there, I got a letter from the brother of a friend in Muscogee, who thought he had a job in the bank for me, but didn't get the job (when they found I was from out of town.) I went to work bookkeeping for a piano store. Another fellow got the job as he could play the piano.

I went into a lumber yard and saw they were rebuilding their sheds - man in office said their yard man was busy supervising the work and they needed someone for the office, so I worked there for about two weeks until they got the sheds done.

They had 29 line lumber yards.

I then went to the typewriter repair office and asked them if they knew of any jobs open. They said they had just fixed a typewriter for a party of engineers, so I went to see them. I started working for them, typing up rough copy and making tracings for their building and electrical inspector.

One engineer got scarlet fever and they took him to the pest house. The chief engineer in the N. Y. office said I could go with a party assigned to Shreveport, La., and Little Rock, Arkansas, and after that project was finished, they went back east for vacation and new assignments. These engineers were from the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York City. I wanted to look into something up at Coffeville, Kansas, so I went up there and then later back to Indiana and worked for Ellis again, about two weeks. Then, I got a letter from the chief of the party of engineers saying if I wanted to come with them again to meet them in Minneapolis, Minnesota, which I did on July 11, 1911.

Altogether I was with them on the inspection of 57 cities, and typed up all the rough copy and final copy, to be sent in to the New York office for printing.

I went in to the New York office to make the maps for the reports and was there about a year.

It was about this time that Marie Lohr and I were married, which took place on February 15, 1916, at the home of Mrs. C. R. Rowley, Marie's sister at Edgely, North Dakota. Then went to Newark, New Jersey, and worked for State Rating Bureau about a year and a half; then back to New York to work for an insurance broker a few months.

I then went to work for the National Automobile Insurance Underwriters Conference and was with them about five years, when we moved west to Danville, Illinois to work for an insurance printing firm.

I was there 19 years, about a year of which I was acting manager.

During World War Two, Betty (that is Elizabeth) came to Michigan to visit a cousin at Lake City, and stopped at Lansing on her way home and got a job with the Home Defense outfit and stayed on there.

Margaret was just graduating from high school in Danville and took a Civil Service exam and passed it. They wanted her to take a job there, but she decided to go to Lansing to be with Betty.

About that time we said to ourselves, "we might as well go to Lansing too," and so we did.

Marie went on ahead of me, and I arrived in Lansing in May of 1943. I helped to unload some freight and got back trouble, and didn't get to go to work until about August 3rd, when I took a job with the Abrams Instrument Corporation - was with them twenty months until they got their war contracts done and then I was laid off. I then went to night school that the Government was sponsoring, and took a course on drafting. I met a man from lands department and he took me down to personnel, and they got me a job with engineering and architect section, conservation department, doing drafting work of bridges over small streams. I worked with them about 12 years and retired on January 19, 1957.

A Mr. Albert Sargent was with us as architect and retired before I did. I worked for him about two years drawing house plans. He was our very best friend. He went to the hospital January 12th - had two operations and passed away February 9, 1966.

It was a rather long road that brought us to the wonderful State of Michigan.

BRIEF HISTORY

AS QUOTE BY ELIZABETH MALOA

After graduating from high school in Danville, Illinois in 1935, I clerked in Ward's and Sear's stores. I went to Olivet College, Olivet, Illinois for a year and a half - decided to spend my vacation in Lake City, Michigan, visiting a relative and on the way home stopped at Lansing, Michigan, to see another cousin, and while there I got a position with Civil Defense (World War II,) and stayed on there.

My sister, Margaret later joined me in Lansing. Then, in April and May of 1943 my parents came to live in Lansing. Margaret first worked for a coal company office and then later got a position as secretary to Mr. William Roberts, Superintendent of inspection of Oldsmobile Forge Plant on the west side in Lansing. A Mr. Edwin Ramsey was also working in the same office, so Margaret invited him home to dinner one evening and that is where we first met.

I later worked in the same office with Margaret and Ed, and then Ed and I were transferred to the main Oldsmobile plant on the south side. Next year Ed will have been with Olds 25 years. He has a position in the material control department.

Ed and I were married at my parent's home at 802 W. Shiawasse Street, Lansing.

We lived at several locations - then purchased a home at 911 Pendelton Drive, (Edgemont) Lansing, Michigan, where we have lived 12 years.

BRIEF HISTORY

AS QUOTE BY ELIZABETH MALOA

After graduating from high school in Danville, Illinois in 1941, I clerked in a small store for a short time. I then took a U. S. Government exam and passed it. They were after me to take a position with them, but I decided instead to go to Lansing, Michigan to be with my sister, Betty, as she had a position with Civil Defense, (World War II). The first job I had in Lansing was with a small coal office. Then, I got a position as secretary to a Mr. William Roberts, Superintendent of Inspection, Oldsmobile Forge Plant in West Lansing, where I worked until I was married. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts requested we be married at their home. I had met Mr. Glen M. Cunningham at the Nazarene Church, and we started going together. Then Glen decided to enlist in the Navy (as the draft was getting close) - (World War II), and he spent over three years in the Navy, working on P. T. boat engines. He got as far away as Darwin, Australia.

After Glen's discharge and our marriage, he worked a short time for Motor Wheel Corporation of Lansing and then got a job with Michigan State University, East Lansing, in refrigeration. He liked the electrical work better, so transferred to it and has now been with his present employment right at twenty years.

I worked after marriage for the State of Michigan, Correction Department for a couple of years or so.

Ronald Phillip (Ron) graduated from Sexton High School in Lansing last year, and has worked for a book distributing company - attended Community College here in Lansing since graduation and expects to go to Olivet College, (Nazarene Church School) at or near Kankakee, Illinois this fall. Marcia Dee is now in Junior High School, (Waverly). We first lived in a rented apartment and then bought a house on Lenore Street on the south side. Then, from there we bought a home and moved to 847 Andrus Avenue, (Edgemont) Lansing, Zip Code 48917, where we have lived since 1952.

UNQUOTE

Sarah Catherin, known by me as Aunt Kate, didn't spell very well, but her writing was very good and legible and this letter was very well preserved, after more than 57 years lapse of time, since it was written.

Alfred had mailed it to me about a week ago, on April 5, 1973, asking me to return it. After reading it I thought its recording would be appreciated by all that knew her. I did not know of its existence, until it came to me in the mail.

By the writer.

F I N A L L Y

As I draw this genealogy research work to a close, I regret that I haven't been able to record something pertaining to the many more of the accomplishments of each and every one of the relatives recorded herein, but without the necessary information I could not do so.

My first request for subscriptions was made to Floyd Mathias in person, on March 22, 1973, and he was my first subscriber, with a $20.00 bill.

On June 3, 1974, I received my last subscription, collected for, or paid for in advance, making 54 $\frac{1}{2}$ books sold.

I had originally planned to start publishing when 80 books were sold, as my contract with the publishers was for 100 books, at a cost not to exceed $20.00 each, delivered to the purchaser.

At that time I had the promise of at least 70 subscriptions, however, as time went on and neared the publishing date things began to tighten up and I fell short of my required goal by more than 25%.

I talked to my son, Robert about it, and he said to go ahead with the publishing and he would make up the deficit, until there can be enough more books sold to pay the cost.

This is the fourth manuscript that I have typed during the almost eight years of research, and because of numerous corrections and additions during the last year it has become more or less soiled.

It is now finished, except that I am retyping it and should have it done soon.

I have designated the relatives that have purchased books, up until it goes to press, by using a prefix thus, *, in front of their name on their recorded page, and I personally thank each and every one that in any way assisted me.

I have several subscribers that have said they wanted a book when they have been made available.

They will be notified when books are ready to deliver, after which the remaining unsold books will be available to any relative by writing to:

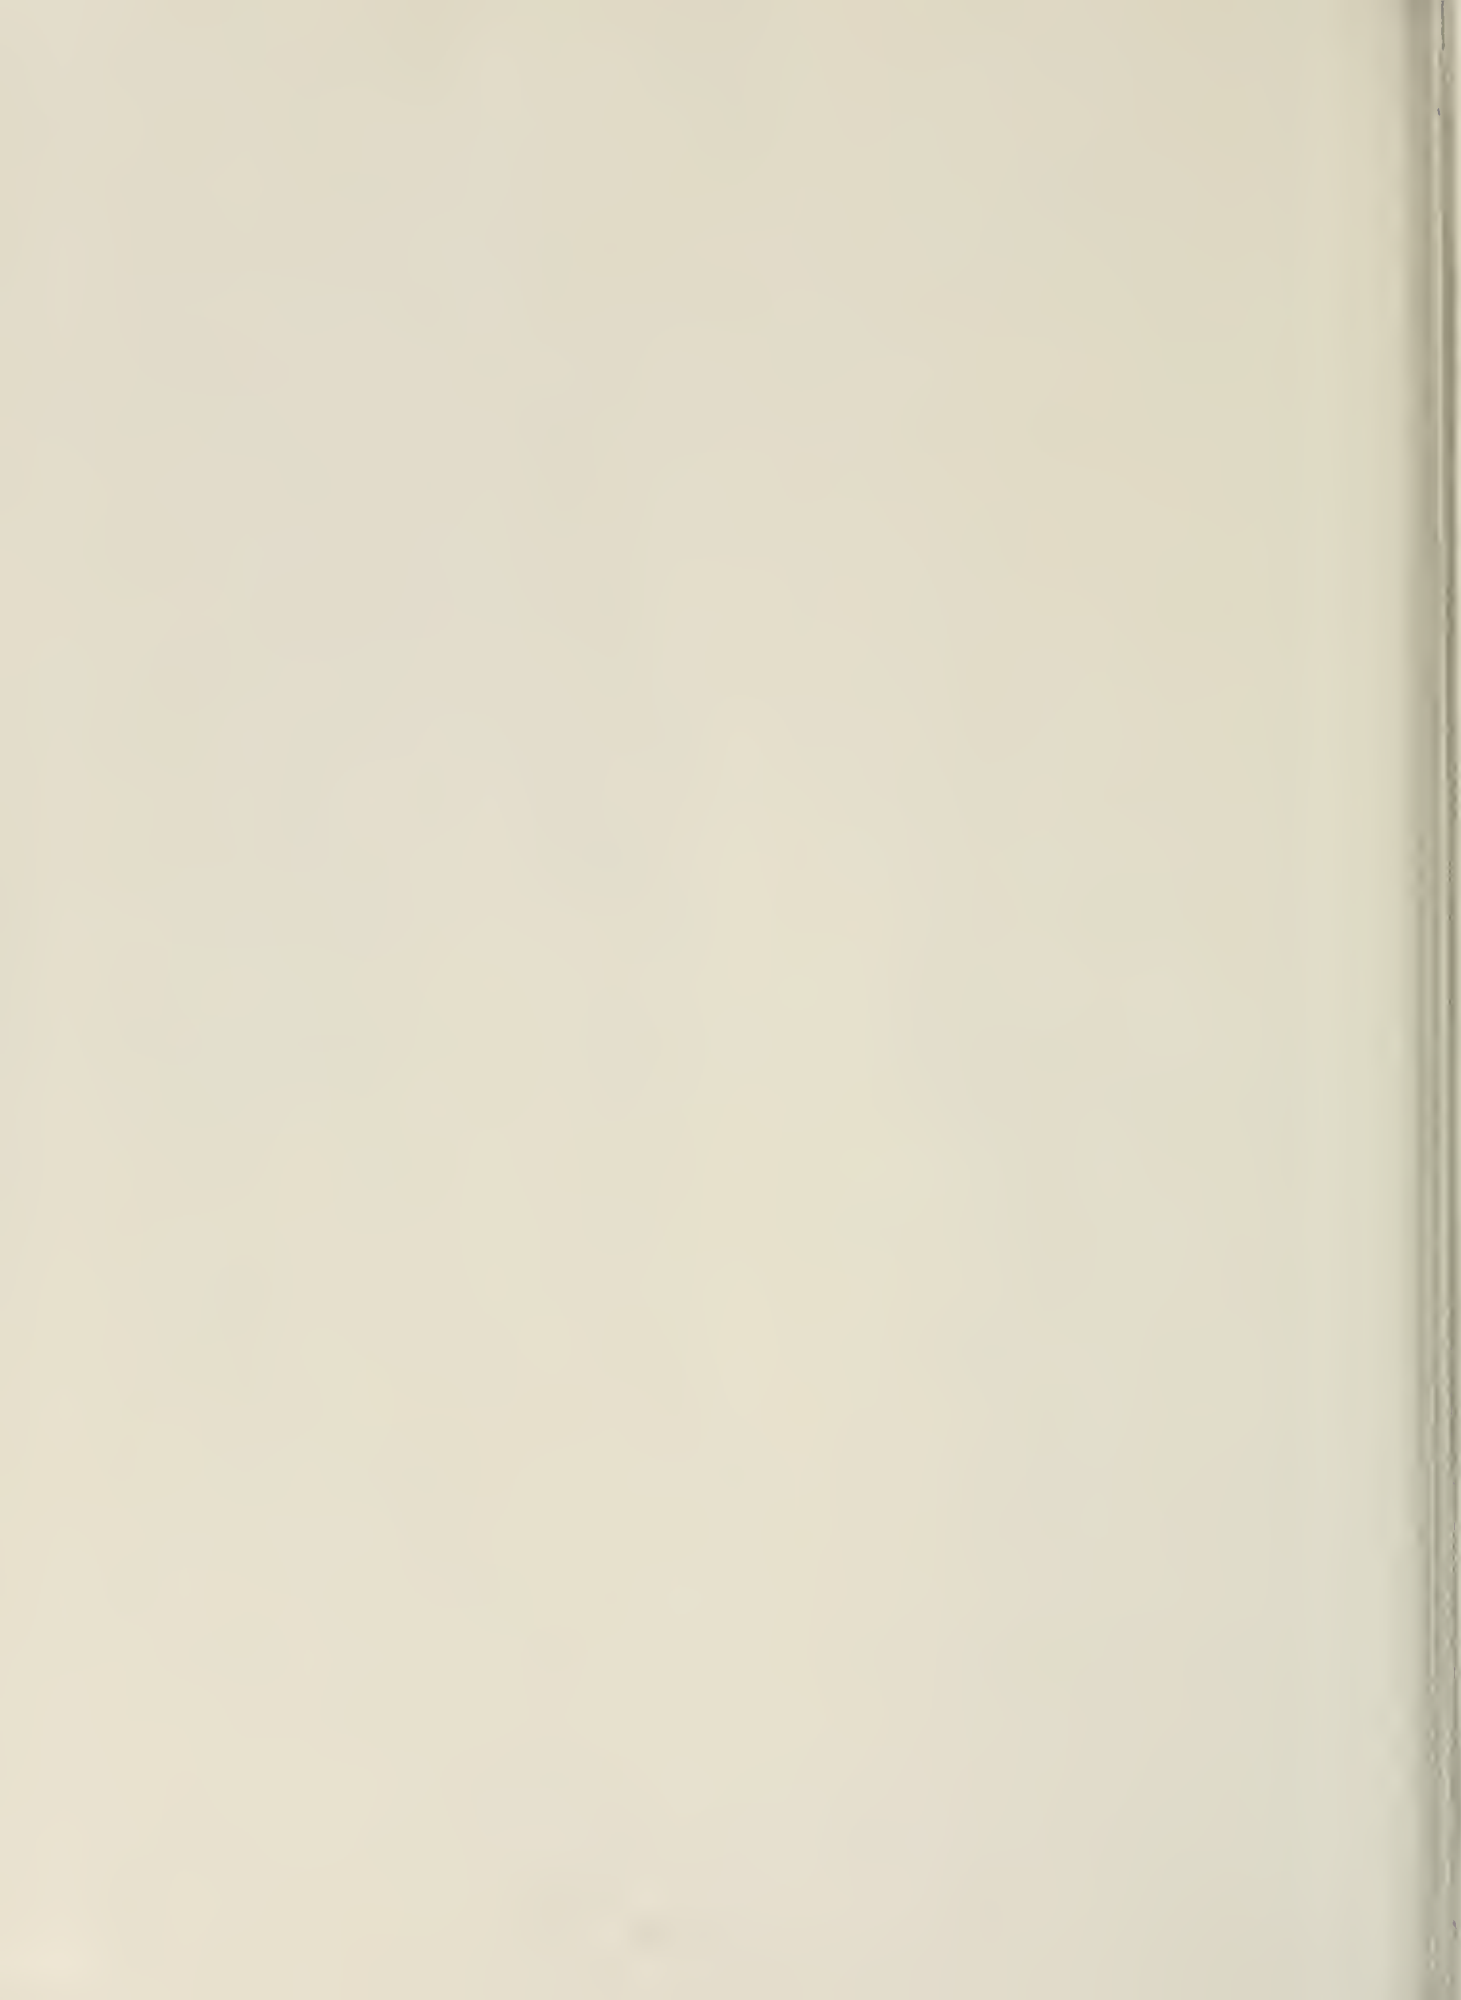

Oren Emmett Eubank, RFD# 3, Box 157, Dowagiac, Michigan, 49047.
